BRADLEY SURVIVORS PART I

I have written a number of tributes to Bradley people who have left this earth. Some were family members, others were friends, and a few were ones whom I hardly knew, but who had done remarkable things in their lives. They all deserved their last tributes.

Now perhaps it is time to pay tribute to Bradley people who are still living in that small community. Bradley has meant much to my life. In the days I lived there, I knew these people. Now that I have not lived in Bradley for many years, I can view these people in a different light. But from the perspective of the past or the present, these are admirable people who have lived their lives in Bradley and have continued to contribute to that place.

For many people I have known in my life, Bradley has been a difficult place to live. Surviving requires a certain toughness, determination, and resiliency. Some Bradley people I knew did not survive. Some died in war. Others died too young of disease and hard living. Many moved away to seek a better life in other places. But a few stayed and have lived admirable lives in that small town where so many of us began our lives.

Sonny Mitchusson is a long-time Bradley resident. Sonny grew up in Bradley, attended school there, and graduated from Bradley High School in the middle of World War II. Like many of his classmates and friends, Sonny entered the Army and served as a Combat Engineer. As American forces fought their way across France and into Germany, his unit built bridges across rivers, often under fire from German artillery and machine guns. As a member of the Greatest Generation, Sonny did his share to win the victory.

I had the good fortune to work for Sonny during my high school years. When Sonny Mitchusson returned from the war, he married Eva and resumed his life at Bradley. Sonny built up a good business, working hard at pumping gas, fixing flats, changing oil, and doing minor car repairs. It was my good fortune to observe Sonny as a good role model for a young man. He was courteous, sincere, and honest. He could be firm and courageous when the situation called for it.

I vividly recall an instance when Sonny showed his courage. A group of Bradley men were drinking at Bonnie's bar on Main Street in Bradley. One of the men, a good guy when he was sober, came up the street carrying a hammer. He was planning to break the windows in some of the stores just for fun. As he approached McCann's Store, Sonny walked down the street to meet him. I was scared. When Sonny met the man, he spoke to him in calm, firm words, telling him to put down the hammer and go back where he came from. I had seen the man do violent things, and I feared for Sonny. After a few words, the man walked away, and Sonny returned to his service station. Sonny had faced more serious threats than a drunk with a hammer.

Down through the years, Sonny has played an important role in the history of Bradley. He became the Bradley Post Master and served there for many years. As a rural mail carrier, he drove thousands of miles on the unpaved roads south of Bradley. He has served on the Bradley Cemetery board for many years, helping to make the Bradley Cemetery one of the most beautiful small town cemeteries. As a long-time resident and cemetery board member, Sonny has become a kind of repository of Bradley history. By studying the Bradley Cemetery, he can recount the history of Bradley from its beginning to the present.

Sonny has spent many years in volunteer service to Bradley. I can recall him helping dig graves in the Bradley Cemetery before we used machinery to dig the graves. He helped families in need, especially children from poor families. He donated blood when my brother, Sam, was ill. And when Sonny was ill and needed blood, the good people of Bradley repaid him in kind. My brother, Jack, who always had a dip of snuff in his mouth, donated blood for Sonny. When Sonny was recovering, Jack went to visit him. In his usual funny way, Sonny said, "Jack, I really appreciated you donating blood for me. I knew it was your blood because when I woke up, I had a strong craving for a dip of snuff."

Not only has Sonny contributed so much to Bradley, but also his family carries on the tradition. His son, Gaylon, is an active member of the First Baptist Church, just as Sonny and Eva have been for many years. Gaylon has continued the tradition of service to the Bradley community by taking up the work with the Bradley Cemetery. The farms owned by Sonny and Gaylon are a beautiful part of Bradley. The Mitchusson family has played an important role in Bradley since the years of World War I, nearly a century ago.

Sonny lives just south of the Bradley Cemetery. He has a beautiful home, a loving wife, a great family, and a comfortable life. His years of hard work, public service, and dedication to his family have been richly rewarded by admiration and appreciation by the people of Bradley and beyond.

The ones of us who grew up at Bradley have been scattered across the nation by the winds of fate. But, no matter where we live or what we do, we carry a part of Bradley with us in our hearts. But a few of our fellow Bradleyites have remained there in that small town to carry on the traditions that marked that memorable place. The ones of us who once lived there owe these remaining ones a debt of gratitude for their service, courage, and loyalty to the Bradley we knew at loved.

Murray

(Continued from page 1) years to helping the Lindsay community. He always had a good heart and went out of his way to help others. His position as Chairman and President of the bank allowed him the opportunity to help people financially, and he was the kind of person who would stick with you through "thick and thin". I know many people who have told me how appreciative they are that Harold was able to help them get their business started or helped get them into their first home. He touched many lives. It was Harold who gave me my start in banking and he is a big reason for where I am today. He gave me the opportunities to grow both as a person and as a banker, and for that I will always be grateful. He will be truly missed."

Survivors include his wife Sherry Murray, one son Ray Murray. He also leaves behind two granddaughters, Raychel Murray and Jule Howard.

Murray was involved in many clubs and outside activities and held one public position. He was a member of the Lindsay Rotary Club, Lindsay Benevolent and Protective Order of the Elks, Masonic Lodge, Chickasha Fraternal Order of Eagles, Lindsay Chamber of Commerce, Lindsay Industrial Society, and served as treasurer to the City of Lindsay for 15 years.

Harold enjoyed his family, fishing, hunting quail, the mountains of New Mexico and Colorado, and his ranch where he raised cattle.

He was a member of the Church of Christ.

A memorial service will be held Wednesday, March 18 at 2 p.m. at the Church of Christ in Lindsay.

Birthday Party Held For Jewell Keeler

The residents and staff of Lindsay Place Senior Apartments joined in to wish Jewell Keeler a very blessed birthday March 10 at the Lindsay Place Community Room. Cake and ice cream were served. Her birthday was celebrated during the St. Patrick's Day dinner. Happy birthday Jewell!!

THANK YOU

The sorrow that is in my heart is sharing space with the feelings of blessings and gratitude for all the kindness and love expressed in various ways. For example, Robert Ellithorp thought to bring ice to the house and Grady Bunch greeted people as they approached the door of the church. The prayers, calls, cards, memorials, flowers, food, visits, the picture a little girl brought of her sitting in David's lap on his bike, and some memory you shared about David were appreciated and we thank you for them. These kindnesses will remain meaningful to David's family, and will become part of our memories.

We thank First Baptist, Lindsay, Bradley First Baptist, the people in the community of Bradley, Jonetta Hinkle, Rick Billingsley, Bill Hamilton, Tammy Downey, those who provided food and those who served the food. We are grateful for the service of the police department, Boydston's, the florist, and Sheryl and Mike Kochert. If you did something, but were not named know that God saw and will remember. The family was so blessed to have David's (Chainsaw's) motorcycle group attend the service and serve as escorts to the cemetery. True to his word, God gave and is giving added strength and grace. David's death was sudden and tragic, but not in vain. Four people accepted Jesus as Saviour and will be in heaven. Friends purchased "Gideon's Bibles" as a memorial and as the Gideon placed Bibles are read, this number could change, and David again will be remembered by God.

David will be mourned and his "bear hugs" and kisses will be missed, but there will be a great reunion some day.

Thank you for being a part of my life and giving blessings as you live.

What you did will be remembered forever. Even "Little is Much if God is in it."

I love you.

Dorothy and B.J. Branch, and the family of Darrell Cheshier, John Cheshier, Royce Cheshier, and Anita Caldwell.

Winsome Sunday School Class Of First Baptist Church Meets

It was a warm morning for March before a forecast cold blast that the Winsome Sunday School Class of First Baptist Church, Lindsay, met at Ann's for their monthly breakfast meeting. Everyone was in a good mood; everyone finally getting over the winter illnesses.

Barbara Lackey mentioned a need for some sponsors for the upcoming Ladies Retreat, and it was agreed we'd help. Recent losses locally were mentioned. Then the ladies got talking about genealogy, and it was quickly discovered everyone was related to everyone else!

Shirley England gave the blessing, and the meals was enjoyed. Ina Hoyle brought the devotional from the book "Then Sings My Soul" by Robert J. Morgan. The book was written to "reacquaint us" with 150 old hymns. In his stressed out times he'd found comfort in singing these old faithfuls.

Ina went on to tell about one of the hymns. "Alas! and Did My Savior Bleed". It was written while Isaac Watts was in his teens or early twenties, but was not published until 1707 in his "Hymns and Spiritual Songs". Why this song? Because of the effect on another songwriter nearly 150 years later. For when Fanny Cosby, 31, heard the third line of the fifth stanza, "Here, Lord, I give myself away," my very soul was flooded with celestial light." How right that Watts should, long after his death, play a part in winning to Christ the author of a new generation of hymns and gospel songs!

Jerry Jones gave the closing prayer. Those attending were: Mary Beckham, Shirley Caldwell, Kathy Ellithorp, Shirley England, Ina Hoyle, Carolyn Hutto, Jerry Jones, Barbara Lackey, Kathy Marcum, and LaRue Robertson.

Link Family To Perform At Sunray Baptist Church

The Link Family from Lebanon, MO will be bringing their bluegrass gospel ministry to Sunray Baptist Church, Friday, April 3, at 7 p.m.

The Link Family consists of Rachel, 21; Kyle, 20; Benjamin, 13; Aaron, 10; John, 9; Becky, Mom; Lance, Dad; son-in-law Landen Keeler; and daughter-in-law, Ashley Link.

Each member of the family participates in performing. Rachel brings to the group a strong lead and harmony voice while playing mandolin, guitar, and bass. Kyle plays all instruments on stage, mostly fiddle and guitar, while singing lead and harmony. Benjamin also plays all instruments on stage, mostly banjo, and sings lead and harmony. Aaron sings lead and plays fiddles, while John sings lead and is learning mandolin. Becky plays rhythm guitar and bass while singing lead and harmony, and Lance brings in the foundation sound on the bass fiddle, sings bass, and serves as bus driver and manager. Landen serves as sound man and Ashley adds twin fiddling with Kyle.

The Midwest SPBGMA (Society for the Preservation of Bluegrass Music in America) honored the group with eight nominations and three awards in 2008. They were Gospel Group of the Year, Becky won top honors as Contemporary Female Vocalist of the Year, and Kyle won Fiddle Performer of the Year. The Link Family also made the Top 10 Bands List in the SPBGMA 2007 International Band Competition in Nashville.

The public is invited for a special night of worship, praise, and song. This family group brings a refreshing performance that will leave you smiling, encouraged, and tapping your feet. There is no admission charge, but a love offering will be taken.

Sunray Baptist Church is located at 2223 N 9th Street in Purcell. For more information, call 527-6808.

Members voted to give a donation to help someone go to the Women's Retreat. They also agreed to change the meeting time to 9:45 a.m. Louise Blakemore gave the closing prayer. Everyone then enjoyed the refreshments brought by Oglene Gordon, and Allene Lindsey.

Turn off the highway and let's go down the Wallville Road. A stirring of the greatest excitement is moving down Wallville Road. A massive amount of cars, tv cameras, reporters, and journalists have embarked at the home of Wallville Mayor Donald R. Kay. Word has come direct from the White House (not the Carl White house as first though), but the halls of congress has let it be known that Wallville site has been delegated 50 million dollars from the U.S. Congress passed stimulus bill. Excitement is mounting as we all wait to hear what Mayor Kay is considering how to use this windfall. The Mayor is about to address the press. With Darrell and Gina Cable in the forefront of this momentous occasion. As the Mayor speaks we learn his intentions are to restore all the remaining broomcorn sheds in Wallville and surrounding areas, as a tourist attraction. But, his top priority is and I quote directly from the Mayor, he intends to straighten the Washita River making it a straight shot from Bradley to the Valley of Promise. He then would place ferry boats taking visitors showing sights of interest. He also stated he hopes to make his good friend Bill Love the ferry boat captain and Loyd Adams his 1st mate. Change you can believe in, is coming down the Wallville Road.

Just off the highway, down the beaten path, the road less taken. Greetings from Wallville-the pearl of the prairie, legend #849.

Looking forward to hearing from you as 2009 progresses. Write Rt 3 Box 222-A, Pauls Valley, OK 73075 or call 405-207-3268. The owl man is listening.

FYI-from the cold and barren Yukon-thanks for your nice letter, Mrs. Mozely. Yes Wallville is a mirage on the desert of time. But, if you'll stay tune to this channel in the coming weeks, I'll share with you the chronology of Wallville broomcorn and Hughes. The alumni meeting is June 27, tell Bob to pack his bag and come along. The Hunt traveling team traveled to Scotland March 13, Scotland, TX that is on into Jacksboro, TX where Matthew Hunt was in Revival. They got back home at 2:30 in the morning.

Hughes students are gearing up for the June 27 annual get-together. Several got together March 7 at the Santa Fe Steakhouse in Norman. Pulling together to make this years get-together one for the record books. Judy Holden reporting.

A heavy work day was held at the Wallville Church March 14 as work progresses toward an exciting Easter meeting. The crew finished the day chowing down at the Lindsay Gas-N-Go. Joe Hunt reporting, 206-7495.

Excitement is building down the Road, the Easter cold spell is hopefully behind us and warmer days are in the forecast. So until next week, this is be kind to "Carolyn Williams" week.

Sponsored by Sierra-Rae Homes, top quality in building of homes. Before you build, check with these guys, Joe Hunt, superintendent, 405-206-7495. Now, the rest of the story.

Also, Mayor Kay says he would like to level the Table Top Mountains so he could see Pernel from his front yard. And, and, Loyd, Loyd Adams, what are you doing, come back here. Ladies and gentlemen, excuse me, this is the Owl Man. My good friend Loyd Adams has gotten into my office and has been promoting this early April foolishness. Forgive me and hopefully next week we can get back to serious business, down the Wallville Road.

Tales From Turkey

By: Amber Minson

It's March and m son is so excited that he can finally play outside. Over the last few months we've had to deal with either yucky weather or being sick and he didn't get to go outside much. Last week the weather warmed up a little, so I put a sweatshirt on Sam and we went out into the backyard and had a blast! It was nice to get out of the house and play for a while instead of being stuck inside with nothing to do.

On top of the weather warming up a little, I think Sam has finally gotten rid of the cold he has been battling for the last week or so. At one point last week, our entire family was sick. But now, once again, it's just me who is taking on everything from a runny nose to an ear infection. I will be so glad when I finally get over all of this yucky stuff and get to feeling better.

Over the weekend, we experienced something here that I don't think I've ever seen, at least not while in Turkey. We woke up Sunday morning and the sky was hazy and brown! A dust storm! I couldn't figure out why the sky looked like that until Zach told me what it was. The dust was so thick in the air that we could smell it and taste it! It definitely didn't help any with my cold and runny nose!

I know that last weekend was the weekend that everyone spring their clocks forward one hour. Here in Turkey and in Europe that doesn't happen until the end of March. I'm not exactly sure why it's so much later, but it is. Europe and Turkey also change their clocks back one hour about three weeks later than the U.S. I hope no one was late for anything because they forgot the spring their clocks forward.

I pray that everyone has a great week and a wonderful weekend. Thank you for reading, and until next time, God bless.

Emergency Watershed Protection Offers Money

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) will provide up to $145 million to eligible landowners nationwide through the floodplain easement component of its Emergency Watershed Protection (EWP) Program, Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced March 9, 2009. The funds will be used to restore an estimated 60,000 acres of frequently flooded land to its natural state and create jobs.

District Conservationist Brandon Chandler for the Oklahoma Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), said that eligible landowners can sign up for these easements until March 27, 2009, at their local USDA Service Center. NRCS administers the EWP Program.

"The local NRCS staff will be working with landowners who voluntarily agree to place their land into easements," Chandler said. Land eligible for the program must have clear title, be privately owned, and free of any hazardous material. The property must have been damaged by flooding at least twice in the previous 10 years, or once in the past 12 months, or located in the breach area of a dam. The lands also cannot be in any other federal program such as CRP, WHIP, or WRP.

The easements that NRCS purchases from participants are permanent easements, and they stay with the property if it is sold. The payment is a one-time payment. Easement compensation is based on a cap set for each county and ranges from $317 to $1,633 in Oklahoma. If restoration work is done on a site, NRCS can pay for 100 percent of the costs.

Once the easement is obtained, the land cannot be cropped, grazed, hayed, or any type of harvesting take place. No structures may be placed on the land, and the land is no longer eligible for any disaster assistance from the USDA.

Interested landowners can contact their local USDA Service Center for more information about the EWP Program floodplain easements during the signup.
