Conservation Funding Sought For Repair Of Flood Control Dams

surrounding states should serve as a reminder of the repair needs of Oklahoma's ageing flood control dams and Conservation infrastructure caused by the record rains of 2007, said Scotty Herriman, president of the Oklahoma Association of Conservation

"The terrible flooding we have witnessed in states like Texas, Missouri and Arkansas should remind us of what happened in Oklahoma last year," Herriman said. "Oklahoma's flood control dams and Conservation infrastructure suffered major damage that must be repaired if we are to continue to provide the protection our citizens have enjoyed for the last half century."

According to information released by the Oklahoma Conservation Commission, over $30 million dollars is needed to repair the damage to Oklahoma's flood control dams and Conservation infrastructure caused by the flooding of 2007. Of this money, over $15 million alone is needed to address dam rehabilitation and operation and maintenance needs. The Conservation Commission has also proposed that $8 million be made available to landowners on a costshare basis to repair damaged conservation practices such as terraces, waterways, and farm ponds and that another $3 million be appropriated to restore riparian systems damaged in Caddo County. Funds have also been requested to address road-side erosion and purchase equipment.

According to Herriman,

Recent rains in if this money is not made structures and we just don't available, Oklahoma will put itself in the position to suffer even greater damage when our state again sees flash flooding.

> "Oklahoma dodged a bullet this week by missing the brunt of the storms that hit our neighboring states," to think what would have happened if the flood control dams that suffered damage last year would have been called on to hold back these records amounts of rain. The headlines would have been talking about the loss of property and lives in our state instead of in the states surrounding us."

> In addition to the need for emergency dollars, Herriman also pointed out the need for basic operation and maintenance funds for upstream flood control structures to avoid breaches on Oklahoma dams like those suffered on levies in Missouri over the Easter weekend. These levy breaks, which led to the evacuation of over 200 homes, were due mostly to the lack of funds for the repair of rusted pipes and for the removal of trees and other brush from the levies themselves. According to Herriman, Oklahoma's flood control dams face similar maintenance challenges.

"The damage that appears to have caused these levy breaks is very similar to the problems facing many of our states flood control dams due to the shortage of operation and maintenance funds," Herriman said. "Aging pipes and gates, trees and other brush and natural erosion are all weakening many of these have enough money to keep up with the damage. This should really serve as a wake up call for Oklahoma."

While action has yet to take place in the legislature on conservation funding, Herriman pointed to earlier support for conservation's Herriman said. "I shudder emergency package by Governor Brad Henry, the Senate Rural Republican Caucus and the Chairs of the both the House and Senate Natural Resources budget funding committees as hopeful signs that this package will be part of a final budget deal before the end of May.

"We know we still have a long way to go through the budget process in the State Legislature," Herriman said. "We are hopeful though that when that last gavel falls in May the Legislature and the Governor will have helped us insure the safety of our fellow citizens by providing Conservation Districts and the Conservation Commission the funding needed to repair the damage caused by the floods of 2007."

Life Line Screening Coming To Lindsay

A stroke, also known as a "brain attack," is ranked as the third leading killer in the world, and the leading cause of nursing home admissions. Stroke often occurs without warning. The good news is that painless screening can help identify problems that can lead to stroke before it is too late.

Lifeline Screening will be in Lindsay April 4 at the Lindsay United Methodist Church.

Screenings are fast, painless and low cost. They test for blocked carotid arteries, abdominal aortic aneurysms, and hardening of the arteries in the legs. Bone density screening is also offered to assess the risk of osteoporosis.

These screenings are important because of the silent and often debilitating nature of the conditions. The majority of strokes are caused by plaque build up in the carotid arteries. The abdominal aorta is the largest artery in the body, and a weakness in the walls of the artery can cause a ballooning called an aneurysm, which can rupture. A ruptured aneurysm is generally fatal. Peripheral arterial disease or PAD is also known as "hardening of the arteries." Sufferers have a 4-6 fold increased risk of cardiovascular disease. Risk is evaluated through a measurement called the "Ankle-Brachial Index," which is obtained by reading the systolic pressure in the ankle and arm.

All four screenings take less than an hour to complete. The cost for a Wellness Package of all four screenings (including free osteoporosis screening) is $129.

Life Line Screening was established in 1993, and has since become the nation's leading provider of vascular screenings. Over 85 ultrasound teams are on staff to travel to local communities, bringing the screenings to residents. These non-invasive, inexpensive and painless, ultrasound tests help people identify their risk for stroke, vascular diseases or osteoporosis early enough for their physician to begin preventive procedures.

For more information regarding the screenings or to schedule an appointment, call 1-800-710-1913 or visit us on the web at www.lifelinescreening. com. Pre-registration is required.

WRITING A COLUMN PART III

A recurring theme in many of my "Matchbook Memories" columns is "time and its passing." This theme has existed in literature since mankind first learned to write. The passing of time manifests itself in loss and death. The passing of time brings the loss of the things we love - skills, youth, and joy. The passing of time brings death of friends, family, and eventually

In many of my columns, I have written about what time has taken away. I have described Bradley in my youth, a place now existing only in the minds of the ones of us who lived there. I have written about the closing of Bradley School, a place where we spent the halcyon years of our youth. I have recalled the teams we had and the games we played. I have written far too many eulogies and tributes to friends and family who have left this earth, all taken away by the passing of time.

In the past two weeks, two events have reminded me of the inexorable passing of time. On December 7, 2000, I wrote a column entitled "Of Time and Its Passing." In one part of the column, I described the old Brooklyn Dodgers, the Boys of Summer, who were my heroes in my boyhood at Bradley. I described how they remain forever voung in my memory - Roy Campanella, Jackie Robinson, Gil Hodges, Pee Wee Reese, Billy Cox, Duke Snider, Carl Furillo, and the others. I wrote how I could see in my mind's eye the old Dodger pitcher, Preacher Roe, shuffling toward the mound in Ebbets Field, his long, skinny arms dangling beside his lanky frame as Eddie Stanky, the former Dodger, waits to lead off the inning while the loathsome

Giants shout vile epithets from the visitors' dugout. One evening last week, my phone rang. It was Dwayne Cockrum, a Chickasha man whom I have never met. He told me the most exciting story I have ever heard about one of my "Matchbook Memories" columns. Dwayne's father, Charlie Cockrum, is from West Plains, Missouri, and is a friend of Preacher Roe. A few days ago, Don sent his father the column in which I wrote about Preacher. Preacher Roe is 92 years old now and is recovering from surgery in a Missouri hospital. Charlie Cockrum read my column to Preacher. He said Preacher was emotionally touched by what I wrote and asked to keep the column. That phone call left me stunned. I would never have dreamed that one of my Dodger heroes would ever read my words and would want to keep my column. When I hung up the phone, I sat thinking back to those boyhood days. In my mind, Preacher is still the crafty lefthander, working slowly, fidgeting on the mound, wiping his brow and slyly coming down across his mouth, loading up a spitball to baffle a Giant hitter as Durocher screams profanities at Roe and the home plate umpire. I will send this column to Preacher in the hospital. I hope it brings him some enjoyment and reminds him of how important he was to a young boy in Oklahoma in those golden years.

Another event last week reminded me once again of the losses that come with the passing of time. My friend, L.B. Hoyle, called to tell me of the death of another of my old Bradley friends. Horace "Hoss" Crow died at age 75 in Snyder, Texas. Hoss was a dear friend with whom I shared many adventures and misadventures. Hoss was from Mississippi with the dry, calm sense of humor that we associated with the Deep South. Along with our friends Boyd and Loyd English and Gary Dean Word, we had some memorable experiences. Hoss and I were inducted into the Army at Oklahoma City on December 12, 1952. We spent a week together at the induction center at Fort Sill. Then we got our orders for shipment to our basic training posts. I was sent to Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri. Hoss was assigned to Camp Stoneman, California. The last time I ever saw Hoss was on December 19, 1952, as he was trying to get through the door of our tent with his duffle bag on his shoulder. I helped him get out the door without ever thinking that I would never see him again. Now all of our old gang - Boyd, Loyd, Gary, and Hoss - are gone from this earth. They leave a lasting loneliness.

I am sure that the theme of time and its passing will continue to appear in my columns. And time will continue to take away the things we love. But we will be comforted by what remains, memories of what once was and what we were in better times.

News from the State Capitol An Update from State Rep. Lisa Billy

The Department of Human Services is charged with looking out for the best interests of children in Oklahoma. Unfortunately, DHS has come under scrutiny recently for how their practices relating to the oversight of neglected children have been carried out. Being a mother myself, ensuring the health, welfare and safety of children is of utmost importance every day. The thought that children who are under DHS supervision might not be receiving all the care and safety they require is very concerning to me. That's why the House of Representatives are doing something about it.

With strong bipartisan support, House Bill 2748 passed and has been sent to the state Senate for further consideration, making it one step closer to being law. HB 2748 will organize an independent performance audit of the Human Services Centers of DHS. It includes, but is not limited to, the Family Support Services Division, the Children and Family Services Division, the Field Operations Division and all area and county offices as well.

This audit will find and report errors in the system and look for ways DHS can become a stronger entity. For those children who do not have the best home environment, this is very important. That's why I supported this bill, because I believe that DHS does good things for this state and I want to see it improve as much as possible.

That wasn't the only childrelated bill to pass out of the House recently. Another, HB 2749, is aimed at creating a task force to improve our state's adoption process, which hasn't been reviewed since 1994. That is far too long without adjustments to improve what is a vital system for those looking to adopt children. Another bill, HB 3055, is focused on improving financial transparency of private adoptions to ensure that Oklahoma children go to loving and capable homes.

This is not - and can not be - a partisan issue. There is too much on the line in this area. I hope that these bills will improve the quality of the DHS system in our state and the conditions that our in-need children face every day.

After all, our children today will be our leaders for tomorrow. If you have any suggestions on how our state agency can better handle these challenges, please contact me.

Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge Volunteer Appreciation Banquet Held

The Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge held its first annual Volunteer Appreciation Banquet March 1, 2008. A total of 65 volunteers, guests, and refuge staff gathered together to celebrate the hard work of many outstanding volunteers. The awards presentation and catered dinner were small tokens of appreciation for all the people who give of their time and efforts to make the Wichita Mountains Wildlife Refuge a better place.

"We couldn't do as much as we do without volunteers," stated Lori Jones, Supervisory Park Ranger. "I think you're all priceless."

Refuge Manager Jeff Rupert, thanked everyone for the time and energy they put into the refuge. "It's not just words. ... We really do appreciate

Last year, volunteers spent 11,356 hours working on the refuge, according to D'Anna Mallow, Volunteer Coordinator for the refuge. "That equals out to over $205,000 in refuge salaries, so good job, guys."

The ceremony concluded with the presentations of four special awards. Donna Phillips of Cache was the recipient of the First Annual Volunteer of the Year Award. Phillips donated over 2,000 hours to the refuge during 2007. She was credited for keeping the Visitor Center open and functioning by volunteering on average 5 days a week and helping to bring off the BioBlitz event held on the refuge in September. "We could not have done it without her," Mallow said.

The Lifetime Service Award was presented to Elise Smith of Lawton, who accumulated over 5,550 volunteer hours over the past thirty years. Smith was recognized for her contributions to the historical photo archive of the refuge.

Carol Stayer of Meers received the Environmental Stewardship Award for the work she has done to reinvent and revamp the refuge's recycling program. Her educational outreach work with local schools was also recognized.

The Invisible Volunteer Award was presented to Dennis Staver also of Meers. He was recognized for putting in numerous hours of behind the scenes work, which included recycling, removing invasive species, checking refuge boundaries and fixing fence.

Other volunteers were recognized and received a catered dinner, a certificate of appreciation, and gifts that corresponded with the number of hours they had contributed.

Tales From Turkey

By: Amber Minson

This week was another boring one for us. Our outings consisted of going to the commissary, or grocery store, and to the BX, or Base Exchange which is like a really bad Wal-Mart. We went out to eat a few times on base and once off base to a restaurant called The Moonlight.

We actually have several places to eat here on base. The company that runs to BX is AAFES, or Army Air Force Exchange Services, contracts out to fast food chains to put fast food restaurants on military installations. Here on Incirlik AB we have Taco Bell, Pizza Hut, Burger King, Anthony's Pizza, and Baskin Robbins. It provides us with a little bit of variety in our eating out options. Along with those fast food places there is also the chow hall, which is the food service offered by the Air Force. The food and set up of the chow hall are very similar to that of a hospital cafeteria. We also have cafes at the bowling alley and golf course available to us. They are operated by Turks, but they serve mostly American food.

Remember that this is a base shared with the Turkish Air Force, so naturally there are several Turkish restaurants on base too. There are four Turkish cafes on base, and the food is similar in all of them, but like restaurants in the states, each one here is a little different and together they offer a variety of Turkish cuisine. I've tried a few of Turkish cafes on base and they are pretty good, but they do not even compare to the food off base, which I have told you about before.

Even though the food off base is really good, lately we have been staying on base instead of going off base to eat or go shopping. The reason for this is that there have been lots of protesting going on in the Adana/Mersin areas. This protesting is not real close to us, it's actually about 10-15 miles away from us, but there is still a slight threat of some protesting or violence in our area. Some of the protesting gets pretty violent from time to time and in the past the protesting has gotten so violent they, the protesters, have thrown rocks and bricks at the cars driving by on the highway. Like I mentioned, these protests are not right here close to us, but they are in the area and are a small threat. However, if anything gets out of hand or gets dangerous here around base, the Air Force takes immediate action and makes sure their soldiers and families are safe.

On a lighter note, I want to share a funny story with you. Monday, Sam was laying on the floor playing and apparently I had left the telephone laying in the floor, and he got a hold of it. I had left the room for just a few minutes and when I came back, he was laying on his tummy with the phone in front of him and he was hanging onto it; talking into it. When I picked it up, I noticed it was on and had been on a call for a little over a minute. I put the phone to my ear and said hello a few times and realized he must be on someone's voicemail. So, I called my mom just to see if by chance it was her voicemail, and she said yes that she had gotten a voicemail from her grandson and that she also heard me saying hello. The only conclusion I can come to about how he did it is that while playing with the buttons he hit the redial button and then the talk button; Mom was the last person I had called so her number was on the redial. That was pretty impressive for a six month old baby if I do say so. Zach, Mom, and I all got a kick out of it.

I just wanted to end this week on a good note since I have written about the protesting. Thank you for reading, and until next time, God bless.

Golden Trend OHCE Meets

The Golden Trend OHCE met March 5, 2008 at the Lindsay library at 1:30 p.m. Those members attending were Kenetha Newey, Joyce Webb, Pat Geddes, Carol Kelley, Lorraine Edwards, Doreene Somers, and Susan Kroth.

The flag salute was led by Kenetha Newey and Carol Kelley read the quote for the day. The whole group read the club creed.

The secretary took the roll call with members answering what they would like to know about the technology. Many good ideas were mentioned and most will be helpful. The treasurer gave her report. The club learned they have a healthy bank balance.

Committee reports were taken and the Duncan district meeting was discussed. Five member plan to go and leave early. There are several good workshops to be attended. The bills were presented and all were voted to be paid.

The attendance report for 2007 was taken with all members helping. A lot of good ideas were presented.

The club has been given some double knit and there are several things that can be used and are easy to make. All the knit can be used for big and little things.

A work shop to make hugs and kisses will be March 11 at the Maysville Bank. These are always in demand and we can use up the knit we have.

A program on technology was the one for the meeting. Lots of ideas were discussed, most will be easy to make. We will make what we can.

Cake, punch, and coffee were served by the hostess.

The door prize was won by Carol Kelley. She will be able to really use it.

The next meeting will be April 1, 2008. The March meeting was adjourned.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

March 19, 2008

Letter to the Editor:

My husband was involved in an accident on Monday March 17, 2008, just south of Lindsay. I would like to thank everyone who was there to help him. I would like to thank the Lindsay Police Dept, Paramedics, Oklahoma Highway Patrol, Adams Wrecker Service and the other citizens that stopped and helped him. I would especially like to thank the gentleman who called me to let me know that he had been involved in the accident.

Sincerely, Danielle and RonDel Carpenter Duncan, OK

THANK YOU

We would like to take this time to thank everyone that sent our family flowers, cards, and food throughout this difficult time of loss. We also want to thank you for the prayers, phone calls, and thoughtfulness shown to us during this time. We would also like to extend a special thank you to the American Legion and to the Erin Springs Baptist Church for their ceremony and for the meal provided to our family. We thank you very much.

> Sincerely, The Family of Newt B. Elmore Jr.

Gene Autry Oklahoma Film And Music Festival To Be Held

Western and country entertainers, Western film stars, authors and cowboy poets highlight this year's Gene Autry Oklahoma Film and Music Festival, held Septmeber 24-28 at the Gene Autry Oklahoma Museuam.

Advance tickets are now on sale for this event that put the tiny town of Gene Autry, OK on the map. It's located about 12 miles northeast of Ardmore, just east of Interstate 35. The town took its name from film star Gene Autry, who owned a ranch there in the 30s and 40s.

Country super star Gene Watson whose hits include "Paper Rosie" and "Farewell Party," heads a strong list of headline performers that includes Les Gilliam, the Oklahoma Balladeer; Johnny Westrn, who played for both Gene Autry, and Johnny Cash; and Eli Barsi, known as "Canada's Cowglrl." Others to be featured include Judy Coder and Pride of the Prairie, a Kansasbased Western ensemble; singer/ songwriter Terry Smith ("Far-side Banks of Jordan"); the hilarious O'Roark Brothers; and Western swing/rockabilly singer Liz Talley from Houston.

Film star guests at the Film and Music Festival include Robert Fuller (Laramie), Barry Corbin (Lonesome Dove), Lisa Montell (Gunsmoke, Maverick), Roberta Shore (The Virginian) and Don Reynolds, Jr. (Little Beaver). (Mr. Corbin will be attending if he is not involved in a film project at that time.)

Authors and celebrities confirmed include Bobby Copeland, author of 14 books about various aspects of the B-Western films; Joyce Spizer Foy and Judy Keel, author of Only Make Believe, a biography of actor Howard Keel; and Cheryl Rogers Barnett, daughter of Roy Rogers and Dale Evans. Celebrity MC's include Tommy Wiggins, John Buttram, and Jo Hargrave.

The event includes showings of various B-Western films and a new film called Trail End, produced by Shannon Keenan and starring Barry

The Gene Watson Show will be held Friday evening, September 26, and includes The O'Roark Brothers, Eli Barsi, and Liz Talley. The Les Gilliam Show will be Saturday evening, September 27, and will include performances by Johnny Western, Judy Coder, and Pride of the Prairie and Terry Smith.

Admission to the event is extremely affordable and discounts are given to seniors, children 12 and under, and to afternoon tour groups. Contact the Museum at 580-294-3047 or townofgeneautry.com for a ticket price list.

The setting for the Film and Music Festival is the Gene Autry Oklahoma Museum, a three building complex located just west of Gene Autry. Dedicated to the "legacy of the singing cowboys of the 'B' Westerns of the 30s and 40s, and 50s, the museum contains dozens of displays that evoke the lives, films, and careers of the various singing cowboys. Included are Roy Rogets and Dale Evans, Ken Maynard, Eddie Dean, Tex Ritter, and, of course, Gene Autry (among many others).

The Gene Autry Oklahoma Film and Music Festival is an annual presentation of the Gene Autry Oklahoma Historical Society and Museum and is funded in part by the Oklahoma Arts Council and the Mid-America Arts Alliance.

For more information about the Film and Music Festival or the Gene Autry Oklahoma Museum in general, log on to www.geneautryokmuseum. com. To order tickets for the Film and Music Festival, call the Museum office at 580-294-3047, Mondays through Saturdays, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Tall Tales

by Doyle Greteman

Superintendent, Lindsay Schools

Spring has officially begun, and most people would agree that it's an exciting time of year.

It's always good to see the first buds of the multitude of trees dotting the landscape, signaling the end of another long, cold winter

Spring break is a good time of year to assess the progress we have made this year, and turn on the juice, if necessary, to finish the year strong.

The last nine week period of the year always seems to pass so quickly, as it filled with so many activities, including achievement tests, field trips, and various spring sports, as well as banquets.

Over spring break, the Lindsay community was well-represented at the Oklahoma City Youth Expo, where many students advanced with their livestock, with Carli Newby bringing home the big prize of Reserve Grand Champion Barrow.

We realize this accomplishment does not come without a great deal of hard work and commitment, and we commend Carli, as well as the rest of the students who work so hard to take care of their animals.

As we enter this last nine week period, we are very thankful that, unless there is a really big surprise in the weather, we will probably not have to use any of our snow days this year.

That means that beginning next Friday, April 4, the days that were previously set aside for possible makeup days for school cancellation for bad weather, will be days when school is not in session.

Those days include April 4, 18, as well as May 2 and 16. May 21 will be the last day of classes this year, with teachers checking out on May 23.

Baccalaureate will be held on Sunday, May 18, with Commencement taking place on Tuesday, May 20.

Next year's school calendar has been set, and will be pretty similar to this year's. As you have probably heard, there is legislation proposed to change the length of the school year. At this point, the language of the legislation deals with total school hours instead of school days.

With the tough budget choices facing legislators this year, my best guess is that there will not be any significant changes in the length of the school year at this time. If there are any changes, we will certainly keep you posted.

We have had a very successful school year to this point, and want to encourage our students to stay safe and finish the year in a positive fashion.

Turn off the highway and let's go down the Wallville Road. Now, it's not your ordinary small ghost town. But, by the 1980's it was just a whistle stop on the road of life. You would think that it had been forgotten by the world. But, in a pinch, the world turned to Wallville. For instance, as Pastor of the little country church, we were always ready to tender our services wherever needed. That being the case, we made it a habit to visit the local nursing home to offer spiritual aid or just a friendly conversation. It was on those visits we became acquainted with many of Wallville-Hughes Rush Creek pioneers. Such was the occasion that we were allowed to make friends with George and Bertha McClain, a farm family from our part of the world. George's health had begun to fail and required constant care and was admitted to the home. Bertha, his wife, and life long companion, admitted herself to watch over George. They had farmed down Wallville Road and had children graduate from Hughes School. So, with a touch of sadness, I received word of George's passing and would I preach the funeral of the old farmer from down the Wallville Road.

Greetings from the Owl man, president of the Wallville-Hughes historical society. The home of Herman Penn, Rilo Work, and a whole lot of good folk. Legend #800.

March birthdays 12-28, Zack Mayhan on the 12, Rebecca Jane Tuner on the 12, Alfred White on the 13, Derick Quinn on the 14, Martha Austin on the 16, Patrick Turner on the 17, Jennifer Kay on the 18, Cecil Hunt, Rob Lovelace, and Roc Robinson all on the 20, Shirley Miller on the 22, Sara Douglas and David Perry on the 26, Lesa Rouse on the 27, Don Adams and Janet Howell on the 28, Loyd Adams on the 12, Kandace Hunt on the 14, Gladys Watterman, Johnny Crosby and Janice Cates all on the 17, and the man Cecil Covel parties on the 25. Have a great day everyone.

Winner of the roses, Buddy and Alta Call, celebrate 61 years of spooning and happy honeymooning this March 23. Good folks.

58 years of celebrations mark the anniversary of Corky and Jo Williamson this March 31. Hope it's a good day. Somewhere around Hughesville.

Happy annivesary Bill and Samantha Robb, this March 24 makes 24 years of good times. The parents of Billy and Heather.

Happy annivesary Justin and Tenessa Bagley, big #6 this March 21. Just traveling along singing a song, side by side.

Happy 29th anniversary to Steve and Becky Mayhan March 16. A romance started down the Wallville Road.

Happy anniversary to Troy and Jennifer Shifflett this March 28 makes 5 years of the good life.

Our thoughts are with the Gardenhire family at the loss of Edna Blanche Gardenhire (94). Born in Antioch, OK, grew up in the foothills of the Table Top Mountains. She attended school at Bell, Mt. Chapel, and high school at Maysville. Her family once owned and operated the B&B Roller Rink.

Alfred White, Wallville born and raised, has been in the Norman Hospital having surgery and many visitors. He was hoping to be home soon. Maybe even at the writing. Our prayers are with Alfred and his wife

Rain, rain, Lord didn't it rain. March 17 into the 18, an old fashion gully washer came to town, filling the creeks, streams, and bar ditches. It was welcome and hope it'll be around about August.

Congratulations to Samantha Robb of old Cottonwood on her new job as manager of Main Street Pauls Valley. Expect big changes in the valley of promise Extra, extra, John Nelson, Hughes class of 1938, called in from Ft. Meyers, Florida with word that he hopes to be here for the school reunion in June. He said to tell cousins Sue Duncan and Corky Ford, hi.

Birthdays March 29-early April, Cory Somers on the 29, Mr. Ed Kay on the 31, Deacon Keck on the 31. On into April, April 1, Ken McCutcheon and Mike Allen, on the 2, Raven Somers, Clarence Holland parties with Brooklyn Keck and Michael Seth Hines on the 3.

Hats off to local our newspaper who week after week work to put together a weekly paper. How do they do it? They have to love their work.

The Wallville Veteran's Committee salutes SP/4 Elvis Aaron Presley, U.S. Army, 1959-60. Served in Germany. Anybody ever hear of him?

Destry Bourdine, resident of Wallville Road, thoroughly enjoyed a visit from his mother, Diane Bourdine from Caldwell, Idaho over the Easter weekend.

Heading into April, alive and well, this is your old friend at the crossroads, saying this is be kind to "All our faithful readers" from sea to shining sea, going with me into my golden years.

Now, called upon to say words of comfort at a funeral, we take extremely serious. The services, a grave side service, was set on a wet, rainy, cool, windy day. The burial was to be at the Purdy Cemetery south of Lindsay just off Highway 76. The family had arrived with some familiar faces in the crowd. Richard McClain and wife and Joe the barber who had attended church at Wallville in the '60's. The nervous preacher and wife were there. The scheduled hour had arrived and no body to bury. Johnny Bob Williams and the Winans Funeral Home of Maysville were in charge of the proceedings. Time passed, people were cold and wondering, where was dad, where was the hearse, where was Johnny Bob? Finally the hearse pulled in, Mr. Williams explained they had went into old Purdy at the old Indian cemetery, where no one had been buried in years. To top it off, they had gotten stuck in the mud. After much pushing and shoving they were freed. They then located the Purdy Cemetery and things proceeded. Mr. Williams, cool, calm, and collected carried on with mud up his pant legs. The family was glad to put the event behind them that made for a memorable moment for the parson from down the Wallville Road.
