Local Man Burned In Flash Fire

Wilroy Keck was seriously burned Friday while helping a friend scrap out an old truck. He was badly burned on his leg and arms with third degree burns and the rest of his body with first and second degree burns. The doctors have said he will be in the hospital at least three weeks initially.

Wilroy and Sissy Keck are well known around Lindsay. They are a fun loving and giving couple. They are always helping others.

The Kecks have raised foster kids and recently they adopted six children; five being from one family so they could stay together. They have shown the children lots of love, patience, and understanding.

They have raised their other two children and have one grandchild, but they have plenty of love to go around.

Wilroy was self employed as a house mover and he will probably be off work for a long time. Sissy is a stay at home mom, of course, and for those reasons a fund is being set up for the family at the American Exchange Bank and the First National Bank.

The most important thing that is needed at this time is prayer.

READING MOLLY GRIFFIS PART I

Molly Levite Griffis is an important Oklahoma literary figure. In addition to founding the Levite of Apache press, she has written a number of books that are valuable additions to the literature of Oklahoma. Her books range from an award-winning children's book to a history book about the first transcontinental foot race to a series of three novels for young readers to a historical novel about the "orphan trains" that brought immigrant New York City orphans to the frontier to begin new lives with people they had never seen. Her wide range of subjects, her wonderful storytelling talent, and her dedication to her Oklahoma heritage make these books wonderful reading for children, adolescents, and adults.

The Buffalo in the Mall is an illustrated book for children. It is a funny story about choosing a buffalo for a pet. The book contains wonderful examples of why a buffalo makes a better pet than other animals such as rabbits, gerbils, kittens, puppies, fish, and hedgehogs. The illustrations by Kim Doner are as fascinating as the rhymed text. Every page has a sly joke in both the words and the pictures. At the end of the book, the reader discovers that the buffalo is a stuffed toy buffalo. Children love this book.

The Great American Bunion Derby is the story of the first international transcontinental foot race. In 1928, a promoter named C.C. Pyle planned a cross country foot race from the Ascot Speedway in Los Angeles, California, to Madison Square Garden in New York City. The winner would receive a check for $25,000, an enormous sum in those days. Runners from around the world entered the race. One of the runners was a twenty-year-old part-Cherokee Oklahoman named Andy Payne from Foyil, Oklahoma. The race drew world-wide attention. Newspapers from around the world covered the race with daily reports.

Much of the race route was along Route 66 from Los Angeles, California to St. Louis, Missouri, where the runners continued eastward toward New York City. The Weatherford News reported the story of the runners coming down Main Street on their journey. I knew a Weatherford man whose father took him to Bridgeport, near Hinton, to watch Andy Payne and the other runners pass along Route 66.

The Great American Bunion Derby, as the newspaper reporters named it, began in March and ended on June 14, 1928, as Andy Payne ran into the arena at Madison Square Garden in New York City, the first place winner of that remarkable race. The second place finisher was fifteen and a half hours behind Andy Payne. The thin half-Cherokee boy from Foyil, Oklahoma received the check for $25,000 and became forever a part of Oklahoma history. He immediately wrote his trainer, Tom Young, a check for $2,500 and allowed as how it was the best money he ever spent.

Andy Payne returned to Oklahoma, paid off his family's farm, and married his sweetheart. In future years, he would serve in World War II, graduate from law school, and serve as Supreme Court Clerk for thirty-eight years. In 1977, his "runner's heart," which had given him the courage to win the race, played out, but his spirit lives on in the many marathon races that are run each year around the country.

In The Great American Bunion Derby, Molly Griffis captures the excitement of the first transcontinental race.

In words and pictures, she recreates that time and that unusual event. And, most of all, she pays tribute to a legendary Oklahoma hero who attributes his success to what he called his "runner's heart." To Andy Payne, a "runner's heart" had two meanings: a strong heart which gave strength and stamina and a brave heart which gave him the courage to persevere through the hardships of a 3,423 mile race through deserts, across prairies, over mountains, and through towns and cities from coast to coast. Molly Griffis has written a wonderful story about courage, determination, and the fulfillment of an American dream.

Winsome Sunday School Class Meets

April 8, the ladies of Winsome Sunday School Class of First Baptist, Lindsay, met at Ann's Grill for their monthly breakfast meeting. Everyone was in good spirits, and hopefully the bad health of the winter is behind us.

Vice president, Jerry Jones asked for prayer requests. Absent members were mentioned, and prayer was requested for several in the church facing surgeries. Also, Harli White was included as she and her family are members of the church. She then gave the blessing.

A time of fellowship and visiting followed while the group enjoyed their meal.

Kathy Ellithorpe read two stories.

Many years ago, Al Capone virtually owned Chicago. He wasn't famous for anything heroic, but he was notorious as a boot legger, dealing in prostitution, and even murder.

Al Capone had a lawyer, a very good one, by the name of "Easy Eddie". He kept Al Capone out of jail for a long time. In appreciation, Capone provided him with a fenced, security controlled home that filled a city block and the fund to live very well. For his part, Eddie accepted it as his due.

He did have a soft spot thought, a son whom he dearly loved. Nothing was too much; price no object. And despite his involvement with organized crime, Eddie even tried to teach him right from wrong; he wanted his son to be a better man than he was. With all his wealth and influence, there were two things he couldn't give his son; he couldn't pass on a good name or a good example.

It was then that he made a decision to rectify the wrongs he had done. He would testify against Capone and the mob and he did. Within the year, Eddie was dead. Shot down on a lonely Chicago street. In his eyes, he had given his son the greatest gift he had to offer, at the greatest price he could ever pay. Police removed from his pockets a rosary, a crucifix, a religious medallion, and a poem clipped from a magazine.

The poem read:
"The clock of life is wound but once,

And no man has the power to tell

Just when the hands will stop

At late or early hour.

Now is the only time you own.

Live, love, toil with a will.

Place no faith in time.

For the clock may soon be still.

Story two started that World War II produced many heroes. One was pilot Lt. Com. Butch O'Hare. One day his squadron was sent out on a mission. It wasn't til he was airborne that he discovered that his fuel tanks were low, and he had to return to the ship. On the way back he ran into a Japanese squadron headed toward the American fleet.

Forgetting self, he flew into them and fired til he was out of ammunition and then ran into the planes themselves. The Japanese gave up and, deeply relieved, Butch limped back to his carrier.

The film on his ship told the story, he destroyed five planes, and for that on February 20, 1941, he became the first Ace and won the Congressional Medal of Honor. A year later, he was shot down at the age of 29. His hometown honored him by naming their airport for him, O'Hare International Airport. His statue is t here and his Medal of Honor.

The connection? Butch O'Hare was "Easy Eddie's" son.

Associate members, Leota McCoy, and LaRue Robinson joined the group. Also attending were Mary Beckham, Kathy Ellithorpe, Shirley England, Margaret Henson, Ina Hoyle, Jerry Jones, and Barbara Lackey.

The women of the Lindsay Library would like to thank everyone for their patience during the two weeks of carpet installation. They will have a large book sale Thursday, April 17 starting at 9 a.m.

To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Yandell

The children of J.W. and Audry Yandell would like to invite family and friends to come and help them celebrate their parents 50th wedding anniversary.

Friendship Club Meets

Wanda Reeves hosted the Friendship Club's April meeting at Lori Ann's. A devotional was given by Betty White from John 13. The flag salute was led by Helen Cox.

Roll call was answered by members Wanda Reeves, Carrie Schwartz, Emma Cantrell, Helen Cox, Fannie Stansbury, Joy Everett, Betty White, Thelma Love, and Lois Knapp. They told what is the best part of their day.

The treasurer's report was given by Helen Cox and Lois Knapp gave the minutes of the March meeting.

A program was given by Lois Knapp on energy efficiency tips by Doug Rye. The utility rates have risen drastically so it is time to implement energy efficient solutions.

The solution is unplug unneeded freezers or refrigerators one may have in their garage. If they are 10 years old or older they will cost $1 a day on energy costs. One may not even need that extra refrigerator/freezer which easily cost one $30 a month.

Fannie Stansbury won the door prize.

New business was discussed and it was decided by the social director the club would meet April 16 for lunch at the Ranch House.

The meeting was adjourned and everyone enjoyed a delicious lunch of meat loaf, baked potato, salad or chicken salad with peach cobbler.

The May meeting will be in the home of Joy Everett.

Tales From Turkey

By: Amber Minson

here between old Adana and new Adana on the E-5 highway. The mall was pretty big and had tons of stores in it. The stores were all similar to those you would find in a mall in the U.S. One of the stores in the mall was a lot like a Wal-Mart Supercenter, which is odd to find in a mall. That store had everything from electronics to groceries; it's called the Real (pronounced Ree-al).

Just like American malls, this one had a huge food court and toys for children to play on. We tried a famous Turkish food from a fast food restaurant. Just like in the U.S. the fast food isn't as good as a sit down restaurant, but the fast food we ate was actually really good. The friends we were with told us that it was nothing compared to the real thing. Something about this mall that you won't find in an American mall is cigarette smoke. Turkish people smoke a lot and they do it everywhere, even in the malls and restaurants. It's perfectly normal to them, but not to us. It is definitely going to take some getting used to.

This last week we also got to experience a Turkish market. Rows of vendors lined up and down the street selling everything from fresh produce to dish soaps and shoes. I was actually a little skeptical about it at first, but my neighbor and I decided to go one Thursday morning, and we both discovered that we really like it. Now, we go every time the market is held, which is every Sunday and Thursday. We buy all of our fresh fruits and vegetables there for under $10. All the produce is very nice and very fresh. I absolutely love going to the market, and will continue to do so throughout the summer.

We also did something this last week that I said I wouldn't do again. We went to another castle. Remember a few weeks ago I told you about our scary trip to Snake Castle? Well, this time we went to Black Castle, and I was so nervous. When we got there, however, we discovered that this castle was nothing like Snake Castle. This one sat on a mountain like Snake Castle, but it was a much smaller mountain. Also, this castle had a sidewalk that led you right up to the main entrance.

Black Castle is in ruins, much more so than Snake Castle, but parts of it were still in tact. We climbed up on top of some of the towers and sections of the inner wall and we also crawled down into some of the interior rooms. I believe this castle was originally known as the Castle of Toprakkale. It was rebuilt in the 8th century with black stones and is now known as Black Castle. The castle overlooks the Curkova River as well as many acres of vineyards. The outer courtyard is covered with trees and is an ideal picnic spot. We actually intend to go back to Black Castle for a picnic in the near future.

This week was full of big adventures for us. Hopefully next week will be too. The weather is heating up here so we'll be able to do more site seeing. Thank you for reading, and until next time, God bless.

News from the State Capitol

An Update from State Rep. Lisa Billy

Oklahoma has always been a state where sports have been a focal point for its citizens.

One of the greatest athletes ever to walk this earth, Jim Thorpe, was from Oklahoma. As were baseball greats such as Mickey Mantle and Johnny Bench. We have many outstanding athletes from our communities. Tommy Holt from Maysville, Kelly Nemecek from Purcell and Morgan Chambers – a recent Purcell graduate – now plays on the golf team at Baylor University. Oklahoma has also seen many great team dynasties as well, as Oklahoma State wrestling holds 34 NCAA national titles and Oklahoma football has seven championships.

So many great sporting accomplishments on every level – from small high schools such as Elmore City/Pernell to the big colleges – Oklahoma is a state that takes its sports seriously. Even our little league activities keep families driving from the fields in Lindsay to the baseball and softball fields in Blanchard. Up until recently, our state has always had options on every level of competition except on the professional plateau.

This week is a big one on this issue. The NBA owners will vote on whether or not to allow the Seattle SuperSonics to relocate here. If that vote comes down in our favor, Oklahoma will become a pro state.

I am a part of the rural caucus in the Oklahoma House of Representatives and we are attempting to amend the original bill in order to better protect rural Oklahoma. Several of these amendments have been made to the pro-hoops bill that will benefit areas from Guymon to Broken Bow to right here in Purcell, Wayne and Pauls Valley. One amendment would give a five year personal income tax exemption to people who move into specific counties in Oklahoma. Another amendment will give a five year tax exemption to Oklahoma medical school graduates who buy or build a home and practice medicine in a rural county or town. These amendments will help to bolster the entire state, not just the Oklahoma City area.

I hope you will take the time to email or call my office and express your opinions on this issue.

Lisa J. Billy (R-Purcell) serves District 42 in the Oklahoma House of Representatives. She can be reached by phone at (405) 557-7365 or via e-mail at lisajbilly@okhouse.gov.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dedication... is it in you?

Lindsay Leopardettes, I am writing this as a graduated Leopardette. Do you ladies want to sit back and complain about your failure to win or do something constructive about it? If you feel it is time to do something about it here is what has to happen. There has to be more of you dedicated enough to be in the gym everyday. When you are there you should be working at 110%, if you are not then, expect the same results you have already been providing. Your seasons show the lack of dedication. Coaches can not: make your free throws, make your lay-ups, make steals for you, and make smart choices on the court offensively and defensively. Ladies this is YOUR job. A coach is supposed to guide you just as a teacher in the classroom does. But, you have to take the initiative to bust your butt to be a champion. Your program will only go as far as you want it to. If you ladies are not living in the gym, then expect the same results you have had season after season. I am writing this in effort to help my fellow Leopardettes realize a coach can only take you so far. Being a champion comes from you. It is based solely on how much your whole team is dedicated to the cause of winning. You have to want it, truly want it. My advice would be to make a list as soon as possible of what results you expect to see next year. Second, discuss among yourselves what it will take to get those results. Then comes the important part, sticking with the program you have set up for yourselves. If you want true results ladies, this is what YOU have to do. Which one of you will be the one to step up and lead the team to a championship? So Leopardettes I ask you once again, DEDICATION... is it in you?

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Thank You Coaches

I want to thank the coaches of our Girls' Basketball Team for the many hours of work that they spent with our girls during this basketball season. I want to thank you for the hours you sacrificed being away from your families. Thank you for caring enough to come to the hospital when one of your players was ill. Thank you for spending Christmas holiday with the TEAM on an overnight trip so several scrimmages could be played during the break. Thank you for spending Sunday afternoons and many late evenings in the gym so that players could come up and shoot. Thank you for being trusting, caring, loving people with whom we know our children would be safe. Thank you for being the positive role models that we in Lindsay are so fortunate to have.

I wish you the best next season.
Leah Stevens

This is a photo of the Sunday market in Incirlik. It isn't a very good shot, I'll have better in the future.

This is a shot of a section of the inner wall of Black Castle. This is the only section of the inner wall still standing.

We actually got out and got to see some stuff this last week. We did a lot, actually. We went to a mall, to the market, to Black Castle, and we got some new neighbors. Compared to the last three weeks, this one has been pretty busy!

I was so excited when some of our friends here on base asked us to go to the mall with them. I am a major shopaholic and it had been four months since I had been to a mall. The mall that we went to was called the M-1 mall. I'm not sure what M-1 stands for, if anything at all. M-1 mall is located about 20 miles from

Turn off the highway and let's go down the Wallville Road. Springtime in Wallville, well we survived the winter winds. But, the question of the hour is will we survive spring? Such a time of colds, fevers, headaches, and allergies. Every week at the church it seems one or two families are out sick. At this rate I'll soon be preaching to the walls. How well I remember as a boy growing up on these backroads. If we got sick which we tried to avoid due to mom's home remedies. Now, Doc Graham over in the Valley of Promise, and Dr. Winnie the Pool in Lindsay were good at doctoring. But, we didn't run to them for every sneeze and sniffle. Mom had her own brand of cure alls. Vicks Vapoar Rub for colds, runny noses, and sore throats. She'd swipe it under your nose, on your throat and chest. Just the smell ought to make you want to get better. If you had a chill out would come the hot water bottle under the covers at your feet. Come to think of it, I haven't seen a good hot water bottle in a while. I mean she had something for everything. A small tin can held Bayer Aspirin, it could cure about anything, Syrup of Black Drought, Milk of Magnesia, and Pepto Bismol which tasted like clabbered milk with food coloring. I stepped on a rusty nail but Doc Mom removed it and dosed the spot with Ker-Oil and laid me up for the rest of the day. I'm just glad she didn't make me drink it to make it go straight to the source of the problem. Now, childhood with Mom was a learning experience, but we survived down the Wallville Road.

Springtime in Wallville, rain is in the forecast. Hope 2008 is being good to you. Legend #803 on the way to a thousand.

Congratulations to Heather and Michael Woodman on the birth of their son Brandon Michael Woodman. He was born April 3, 2008 at the Norman Regional Hospital, and weighed 8 pounds, 6 ounces. The grandparents are tickled and go by the names of Mark and Katy Woodman and Bill and Samantha Robb.

Chief meteorologist for the Rush Creek Valley and Wallville Road Headquarters, Bill Donaho, reports major thunderstorms and high winds rolled through the Valley April 9 and 10. Heavy rains and flooded roadways were the results.

From the better late than never news department, March 23, 2008 a slim crowd was on hand for the annual Driskell reunion. It was held in the usual spot in the Martha Jensen pasture. Head honcho Martha Aliene Jensen and daughter Carolyn were on hand. Others said it wasn't cold enough for them.

Hats off to our local storm chasers and watchers. If they're looking for me, I'm in the closet or under the bed.

The Wallville Church was treated to the preaching and singing of Brother Matthew Hunt April 9. His wife Kristi and daughter Anna Grace were listening.

Our dear friend and old hummingbird spotter, Red Bluff pioneer, and World War II veteran Charles Powers has relocated to the Washita Living Center in Pauls Valley due to poor health. If you can't reach Charles, his daughter, Teresa Cunningham, lives in Lindsay.

Having a great happy birthday, Carl White and Monty Jensen on the 17, Destrly Burdine and Riley Work party on the 17, Linda Kay on the 21, and Pepper Austin on the 24. Party hard troops.

The old Pony Express rider came riding in with belated birthday wishes to Harli White, on April 12. Who we keep in our prayers.

To all our readers who have tried to reach us and got a wrong number, it's all my fault, the real number is 207-3268 or 207-1691. Write RR 3 Box 222-A, Pauls Valley, OK 73075. Our readers are the best.

Hughes Baptist Church, home of the annual Hughes VBS, still has church Sunday mornings at 10 a.m. and Sunday night at 6 p.m.

and Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m. Reverend Ronnie Blankenship, pastor, 405-756-4680.

Maurine Turner, Garvin County pioneer was reported to be in the Pauls Valley General Hospital. We pray all is well.

Visitors in the Owl's Nest have been Destrly Bourdine, Dallas Pope, Matt, Kristi, and Anna Hunt, Steve Mayhan, and hundreds of black birds.

Congratulations to Ben and Heather Burges on their wedding day, April 12. Heather is the daughter of Marvin and Sherrie Dodson and the niece of the owl man.

Wallville pioneer, Darlis Jensen, (89) suffered a serious stroke April 11. She has been in cardiac care at Norman Regional Hospital. Families are staying close and prayers are being made.

The Wallville Veteran's Committee salutes Markayla J. Smith, Air Force Airman First Class, serving her country. Her first assignment was in Cheyenne Mountain in Colorado.

The Wallville Church enjoyed the preaching and singing of Brother Joe and Sister Veda Dodson of Blanchard April 13. While the pastor and his wife preached for Brother Harvey Moore in Huntsville, AR. They also visited the Ken McCutcheon family. Ken is an old Hughes School student with serious health problems.

W.F. Jensen cut short his vacation and will be flying in from California to be with his mother Miss Darlis Jensen who is in the Norman Regional Hospital.

Direct from the pages of Old Al's Almanac, the long abandoned Green Store on Hwy. 29 joined the ranks of the Wallville General Ben Bells Story, OK Store and the Spurlocks Grocery. A match was put to it recently, the landmarks are disappearing.

We will kill the old red rooster when she comes, and until then, this is the man from Wallville Road saying this is be kind to "Harli White" week. Prayer will help more than anything.

Oh! Yes, one thing I forgot to tell you was Mom's number one sure fire cure for just about anything. A cold, wet rag on the forehead. Now, Mom called it a rag, but what it was, was a washcloth soaked in cold water to cool a fevered brow. Now, why she called it that I don't rightly know. Because she got them brand new with every box of Duz Laundry Detergent. A wash cloth in the small box, a dish towel with a medium box, and a bath towel with the giant economy size. Now, Mom liked new blue Cheer or Tide, but they didn't dispense towels to folks down the Wallville Road.

Their family lived around Pauls Valley, Antioch, and Maysville working for Dresser Engineering to help construct the Maysville plant, and he also worked for the Warren Petroleum plant that he helped to build which was replaced by Gulf Oil and later on Chevron. Lloyd worked from June 1949 to July 1985 when he took early retirement to farm and ranch and enjoy grandkids. Lloyd and Barbara built their retirement home SW of Maysville in 1979.

He loved to visit with family and friends so much that he would drop whatever he was doing and make time for others.
