Six Students To Represent Area At Boys and Girls State

Ball-Smith American Legion Post 23 and Auxiliary Unit 23 are proud to announce that six area students will represent them at Boys State and Girls State.

The concept for the program was conceived in 1935, developed in 1936 and implemented in 1937. Its purpose of fostering Americanism, patriotism, and leadership was to counter camps being run by the American Socialist movement.

Approximately 730 young men and 435 young ladies attend annually.

Cream rises to the top and the thousands who have attended over the last 70 years have proved the wisdom of the adage: "These are your leaders, the movers and shakers of tomorrow."

The young ladies attend on the OU campus in Norman, and the young men go to Northeastern State A&M in Miami, OK.

Those attending Boys State in 2009 are: Stephon Bradley, the son of Teri Kennedy of Lindsay; M. Jacob "Jake" McGuire, the son of Melonie Alario of Lindsay; and Ben Carson, the son of Dawn Mann of Lindsay.

Girls State is a unique Citizenship training program in which Auxiliary members guide youth of our nation toward an understanding, comprehension and appreciating of their roles as United States citizens.

Every summer 20,000 young women across the nation participate in Girls State sessions to study, local, country, and state government processes.

Girls State began as one and two sessions in the late 1930s. In 1939 it was expanded to a week-long government education program. Since 1948, Girls State has been a regular part of the Auxiliary's Americanism curriculum.

The young ladies attending for 2009 include: Jennifer Reed, daughter of Chris and Yvonda Reed of Lindsay; Macy Lindsey, daughter of Mitch and Kellie Lindsey of Lindsay; and Whitney Beck, daughter of Dan and Valerie Beck of Lindsay. These young people are able to earn college credit by attending these sessions.

MEMORIAL DAY 2009

Memorial Day is a time to remember. On this special day, we pause to remember the men and women who have served to keep our nation free. We remember their service and their sacrifices since our nation was founded. In cemeteries across our nation, we hold solemn services to honor our dead. In foreign lands, we conduct Memorial Day services in the large military cemeteries in such places as France, Okinawa, and Hawaii. Wherever our fallen warriors lie, we honor them on this special day.

On Memorial Day, the Honor Guard from the Ball-Smith American Legion Post 23 in Lindsay conducted services in six cemeteries. Ceremonies were conducted in Ninnekah, Alex, Bradley, Lindsay, Erin Springs, and Purdy. Each service was conducted in front of the Veterans Memorial Monument on which were inscribed the names of each veteran buried in that cemetery. Each monument is a stately tribute to those who lie buried there. The names signify veterans of our wars beginning with the Civil War and through all of our wars up to the present conflicts. The members of the Ball-Smith American Legion Honor Guard represent World War II, Korea, and Vietnam. As I watched the Honor Guard fire their 21 gun salute, I felt a sense of pride that these brave men, some of them in their eighties, still loyally serve to honor their fallen comrades.

The ceremony itself is as impressive as the men who conduct it. At each cemetery, Bill Baxter welcomed those who attended and introduced the speaker at each cemetery. After the speaker had concluded his remarks and the musical performers had finished their patriotic tributes, the Honor Guard concluded the program. At each cemetery, John Howell called the Honor Guard to attention, gave the command to fire the three volleys, and gave the command to present arms. As the seven rifleman and the other Legionnaires stood at attention and held their salutes, the bugler blew "Taps," the saddest of all sounds. At each cemetery, as the final notes of "Taps" sounded, there was a moment of absolute silence, which always seems to follow that solemn tribute.

For the past several years, I have accompanied the Lindsay Legionnaires as they conducted ceremonies at the area cemeteries. Each year, I feel a sense of pride and brotherhood with these Legionnaires and the veterans who gather at the cemeteries. Many of the Legionnaires and veterans who attend are graying men now, stooped by the burden of the years. Their eyes are calm and steady, having seen more than their share of pain and suffering. As the ceremony unfolds, their minds go back to scenes from the past, battles and hardships they have known. Images of friends long departed from this earth flash through their minds. Their eyes travel to the monument nearby, where names of friends and comrades in arms are engraved in the polished marble. The question lingers, "Who will be the next to have his name etched into the monument?" And always there dwells in the minds of those veterans gathered for this ceremony the deep sense of pride which comes to those who served faithfully to preserve the freedom of our nation.

News from the State Capitol

An Update from State Rep. Lisa Billy

This week the state House and state Senate will adjourn. Sine Die without increasing taxes or dipping into the rainy day fund. Over the past several months budget negotiations have been ongoing in appropriation sub committees. Compromises have been made between the House, the Senate and the Governor's office and a bipartisan budget has been developed.

It's no secret that our great nation has been suffering through a painful economic recession for about a year now. Oklahoma has been blessed and has withstood a lot of the damage taken on by other states, but we haven't been totally spared. The drop in state revenues and collections has impacted how our state budget will be funded for the upcoming fiscal year, beginning July 1.

In order to create a responsible budget for fiscal year 2010 cuts were enacted and expenditures were trimmed. It is never an easy decision to make cuts to state agencies, but it was necessary.

The entire budget for next year is $7.2 billion. On average, each state agency had its budget cut by seven percent. Fortunately, the most vital aspects of our budget-common education, higher education, corrections and transportation-were able to avoid cuts and will be funded at their 2009 levels.

While the cuts are unavoidable, the opportunity to step back and examine how your tax dollars have been spent is important. The citizens of this state entrusted the members of the legislature to be responsible in budget negotiations.

The new budget agreement shows that Oklahoma is more responsible than many other states which are billions and billions of dollars in debt. Oklahoma has been living within its means and a balanced budget has been agreed to that didn't increase taxes or touch the 600 million that is in the rainy day fund.

Some economic pundits say the economic storm is behind us, others say the worst is yet to come. Our state is in a good position to ride out the storm and I am confident it will.

Friendship Club Meets

For their meeting, the Friendship Club met in the home of Joy Everett. The meeting was called to order by club president, Joy Everett.

Roll call was answered by members Emma Cantrell, Carrie Schwartz, Thelma Love, Fannie Stansbury, Betty White, Joy Everett, and Lois Knapp, telling how they spent Mother's Day.

The group sang "Sweeter Than The Day Before", and also sang happy birthday to two members who had May birthdays, Thelma Love, and Fannie Stansbury.

Flag Salute was led by Emma Cantrell and the Creed was led by Fannie Stansbury.

Betty White gave a devotional from "The Christian Bible Study". The group took a quiz from "The Sermon on the Mount". Thelma Love won by getting the most answers right.

Minutes from March meeting were given by Lois Knapp and Joy Everett reported on the Chickasha trip, the club took in April.

A program was given by Lois Knapp on an artist, Debby Kaspari, who has received national acclaim as a noted natural history artist who has traveled the world including Peru, Panama, and Costa Rica. She always drew birds and animals. So in 1983 she made her first trip to the tropics where she got more serious about painting birds. She grew up in the San Francisco area where she had a following. Her paintings were on display in shows and galleries.

In 1993 she met and married a biologist who was offered a job teaching at the OU. They moved to rural Norman. The country setting suited her love of nature.

Her work appears in "Bird Watchers Digest" her detailed drawings and paintings appear in a number of books.

She adapted to living in OK. She loves wide open spaces and beautiful scenery.

She had one work for Sam Noble OK Museum of Natural History on the campus of OU and also her paintings have been featured in shows in the Governor's Gallery at the State Capitol. Later this year she has a show opening at Sam Noble Museum in October.

Although she travels the world, she is happy with her OK home base. And through her works she brings the world to OK.

There was no new business so the meeting was adjourned and refreshments of chicken salad, and strawberry pie were served by the hostess.

June meeting will be in the home of Carrie Schwartz.

Krugs To Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Krug

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Krug of Lindsay will celebrate their fiftieth anniversary Saturday, May 30. Their daughters, along with their families, invite you to attend the anniversary celebration at Erin Springs Baptist Church at 2 p.m.

Married May 31, 1959, Gary and Loretta resided in the Guymon, OK area in the early years of their marriage, from June 1959 until the summer of 1969, adding to their family, their son Rocky in April 1960, then daughters Penny and Connie in 1963, and 1964.

Gary had a variety of jobs including Adams Hardfacing, General Telephone as a lineman, working as a roughneck, and farming before he began working for Mobil in September 1967. The family moved with Mobil from the panhandle to Thomas in 1969, on to Big Piney, Wyoming in 1972, then to the middle of nowhere in Northwest Colorado in 1974, closer to home in 1978 when they moved to Moscow, Kansas, and finally to Lindsay in July, 1980.

To them the multiple moves means a great variety of life experiences and a chance to make friends they'd never met otherwise, as well as preparing their children for the multiple moves in their adult lives. Gary says no matter where they lived they found people who enjoyed a little fellowship over food. That could be because everywhere they lived they found a church to be active in. Gary generally helped with the music and Loretta has always found her place teaching Sunday school and caring for the little ones in the nursery, or whatever else was needed at the time.

They've continued this throughout the last 19 years in Lindsay and have enjoyed watching some of their nursery babies grow up. They have also spent time as mission service corp. volunteers and work with Disaster Relief of Oklahoma when they can.

Gary and Loretta have enjoyed traveling to see their grown children and their grandchildren in the varieties of locations they've lived. Rocky and his wife Pat serving in the Air Force and living with their three children in Germany gave the Krug's a chance to visit the homeland of Gary's grandparents and various other European countries; Penny and her husband Rod and their three children living in Africa gave a good excuse for a safari; and Connie and her husband Mark and four children provided plenty of reasons to travel to the Rockies, just to name a few excursions the couple has enjoyed.

The Krugs are looking forward to visiting with family who will be coming in from Missouri, Texas, and possible Florida for the festivities and welcome all friends in the area to come by Erin Springs Baptist Church Saturday for a short visit or stay for the afternoon.

LHS Student Travelling To Europe For Once In A Lifetime Trip

Selena Gilliam was a freshman at Lindsay High School during the 2008-2009 school year and has been offered a lifetime opportunity to travel to Europe this summer. She was chosen along with several other Oklahoma students to be a delegate with the People To People Student Ambassador Program which was founded in 1956 by President Dwight D. Eisenhower with the hopes of promoting world peace through increased understanding between the citizens of the world. President Eisenhower served as a military commander and believed that ordinary citizens of different nations could make a difference where governments could not. This program has been sending students of all ages around the world for over 50 years. Acceptance into the Student Ambassador Program was thru a nomination based on her academics in which she maintains a 4.0 GPA every year.

Selena Gilliam

exploring the campus of the University of St. Andrews in Scotland and playing a round of golf in the game's home city with the help from a local professional golfer. The students will also have time set to do some community service by delivering meals to the elderly. These are just some of the adventures out of so many they will be involved in during their stay in Europe. It is a wonderful opportunity and a great honor for her to be able to go.

"Selena is so very talented and intelligent and we are very proud of her. We believe she will be a great delegate for this program and it will be very beneficial to Selena in many ways. We are excited and nervous about her going but I know she'll be in good hands and well taken care of while she's there. This is a chance of a lifetime for a young student and we couldn't let her miss it." said Selena's parents.

Selena has said many times, "I'm really excited about this trip. It's going to be a lot of fun as well as educational and I can't wait to go!"

Selena is the daughter of Mark and Julie Gilliam and sister to Jared Gilliam of Lindsay and the granddaughter of James and Delores Gilliam of Lindsay, and the granddaughter of Cato and Annette Jones of Wewoka, Oklahoma.

activities thru out the trip like meeting a former member of Parliament or cabinet minister, touring Warwick Castle and Edinburgh Castle. She will get to know the Beefeaters, official guards of the Tower of London, and hear about the Tower's many functions over the last 10 centuries, riding the London Eye, which is the largest ferris wheel in Europe, and rappelling down the 90-foot tower of Penrhyn Castle in Wales.

She will also enjoy a barbecue and informal games with Irish students and learn how people live in a different country with different views and ideals while making new friends at the same time, shooting the rapids down the River Tay,

The Lindsay Cowgirls are the 12-under pre-season tournament champions. The Cowgirls are Calli Clingman, Skylar Thomas, Breanna Miller, Brittany Ramming, Mackenzie Smith, Brooklin Farr, Michaela Taylor, Logan Clark, Abbie Mays, Ellanee Allison, and Alyssa Perkins. ATTEST: BOARD OF GARVIN COUNTY COMMISSIONERS
GINA MANN CHAIRMAN SHON RICHARDSON
COUNTY CLERK VICE-CHAIRMAN JOHNNY MANN
MEMBER KENNETH HOLDEN

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

This is in response to the young lady that complained that “their senior year wasn’t as bright as others, because of the fact that they were young parents, and they feel because of that they were excluded instead of included” in the yearly events.

First, I would just like to say-Get over yourself. Just because you decided to have a baby your senior year-I am sure that they are not penalizing you. This was your decision. Being a senior-you knew that these things would be occurring-you should have been checking with your senior advisor.

The school has always posted the upcoming events.. They have daily announcements, they are posted on the LHS website and the events are also published in the Lindsay News. Anytime some one misses classes at school it is their responsibility to find out what is happening. It is not required of the school administration to call each person that misses and advise them that they will miss out on pictures, tributes, etc, if they don’t hurry back to school.

Is this the same attitude that your are going to be using every time something happens at work and you miss out? You are a grown adult with a young child and you need to realize that you are responsible for your own actions. I’m sorry that you feel your senior year was ruined, but with a bit more effort on your part, I’m sure it would have been more enjoyable.

Barbara Beasley

In response to last week’s “Letter to the Editor”, the Lindsay High School has utilized a daily bulleting since before 2001. This contains a lot of information for students and teachers regarding activities. It also includes deadlines for scholarship applications, yearbook/Senior Tribute purchases, ordering graduation announcements and deadlines to turn in photos for the Senior video. First hour teachers may read this or just make it available for the students to read themselves.

Secondly, some of the announcements contained in those daily bulletins were also published in the local paper. This may be the only way some parents knew of particular deadlines. But should either of these two means of sharing information be overlooked, there are three Senior Sponsors, available to the senior students all year for any information of forthcoming events, activities, or deadlines.

You cannot honestly lay all the blame for being uninformed at the feet of Mr. Inman or the teachers. I know from experience that my own children did not always listen or attempt to discover the contents of this bulletin. They too missed out on some event or deadline, but learned from the experience. You too share in that responsibility. School officials do their best to prepare you to be successful in the adult world. They will not always be there to guide you and hopefully have given you the tools to utilize all the resources accessible to you.

As for being a young parent, some may have chosen the Alternative Education route to complete their high school education. They have overwhelming tasks that use time and energy necessary to raise their own children, in addition to study time for their diploma. I’m sure there are rules available to them regarding what activities they may not be eligible to participate.

The traditional route of education includes sports, band, vocal, and other activities that require a tremendous amount of time and dedication that student parents may not have the liberty to enjoy. School personnel have never intentionally excluded any student based on the premise of parenthood from any activity for which they were eligible to attend.

I have known student parents that continued the traditional path of education and participated in all the activities available to those students. It was not easy and they relied on the assistance of many to succeed. There was a time when an alternative method of education was not even available to student parents. They usually dropped out of school, some even got their GED. Life is full of choices and there are always consequences to those decisions.

It is disappointing that you can sum up your whole senior year as negative based on a failure to meet a deadline for Senior Tributes or on the basis of being a parent. Insead, you are to be admired for continuing your education, meeting the graduation requirements, and crossing that stage to receive the diploma you worked so hard to obtain. We, the community, laud your accomplishment and wish you all the success.

Turn off the highway and let's go down the Wallville Road. With more from the old Wallville boy James Paul Cunningham.

August 1, 1955
Dear Al,
Have you ever started out on a trip and, for reasons beyond your control, end up in a place where you never expected to be? This has just happened to me. Unless you know your APO numbers, you can't tell from my address where I am, but let me assure you it is not where I thought I was headed when I left Oklahoma City two weeks ago.

The APO 30 postmark on the envelope is the address for the Nouasseur Air Base, located in French Morocco about 15 miles south of Casablanca. Let me explain how I got here. You will recall I told you I had a 2-year active duty obligation with the U.S. Air Force. Guess what? Last month they ordered me to active duty. My orders said I was to report to Orly Field at APO 230. I didn't have a clue where Orly Field was, but supposed it was somewhere in Europe. Curious to know for certain, I called Tinker Field. They told me I was a lucky guy, because Orly Field, was located just outside of Paris, France. Boy, was I tickled. I couldn't wait to tell my church buddies and fellow teachers where I was going to be stationed for the next 12 months.

A week later I reported in to Manhattan Beach AF station in Brooklyn, NY for processing. A few days later I was given a new set of orders, but, to my surprise, they directed me to Rhein-Main Air Base in Germany, located near the city of Weisbaden. I was disappointed, but I was told a duty assignment in Germany was considered a choice assignment. When I arrived at Rhein-Main, I reported in to the 8th Air Postal Group headquarters and met Lt. Col. Clark, the commander. Two days later I experienced my second disappointment. Col. Clark informed me and another lieutenant that the Air Force postal squadron at Wheelus Field down in Libya needed two officers and we had been elected to fill the vacancies. After receiving another set of orders, we boarded an Air Force cargo plane and took off for what we thought would be our final destination. By now, I am wondering what my friends back home are going to think when they get my first letter and learn that I never made it to Paris.

We arrived at Wheelus Field in the middle of the afternoon last Saturday. I've known hot days in Oklahoma, but none have ever matched the heat on that runway when we stepped off the plane. I asked one of the airmen in base operations how hot it was and he said it was 132 degrees. He added that it had been just as hot the day before and the forecast was for more of the same for the next five days. My initial reaction to my new assignment was that I was in for a miserable 12 months of active duty.

Monday morning we reported for duty at the base postal squadron and met Major Lowe, the commander. He informed me and the other lieutenant that only one of us would stay at Wheelus Field and the other would continue on to Nouasseur Air Base, which is located about 15 miles south of Casablanca in French Morocco. When he mentioned French Morocco, I recalled all the trouble the French government was having keeping peace among the Arabs. Hostilities had risen to the level that Arabs were ambushing and killing French soldiers. There were even reports of occasional killings of American soldiers through mistaken identity. I could just picture myself being the next casualty. By now, disappointment was becoming a way of life for me, so I wasn't really surprised when the Major said he would keep the other lieutenant, who had a wife and child, at Wheelus Field and send me, the bachelor, on to Nouasseur. The next day, with a fresh set of orders in hand, I boarded another Air Force transport and headed for the air base where I would spend the next twelve months.

After arriving, I moved in to a Quonset hut with three other lieutenants, and reported for duty the next morning. As a base postal officer, I soon learned my duties and responsibilities under the expert tutoring of M/Sgt. Williams, a 25-year career veteran. This is all for now.

Your Friend,
James P. Cunningham
1st Lt., USAF
