Fentem Family Receives Distinguished Family Award From East Central University

During ECU's Centennial Evening of Honors, members of the Fentem family were awarded the Distinguished Family Award for the greatest contribution to the university by one family in the first 100 years of the college. The Fentem family has been closely connected to ECU since 1909 when A.L. "Dad" Fentem became one of the first faculty members at East Central. Now, 100 years later, his great-great-granddaughter, Ruth Ann Fentem Copeland is graduating with a master of education degree with a school counselor option.

A.L. Fentem was twice voted the most popular professor on the campus and this year his great-grandson Brandon Fentem was voted Lindsay's teacher of the year for the second time. It was "Dad" Fentem who chose orange and black as ECU's colors. He taught math, economics and sociology, and directed the first band, wrote the first school fight song, and directed the chorus and quartets. He was still on the faculty when the first men's residence hall, Fentem Hall, was dedicated on June 12, 1937. The Fentems had four sons, A.L. Jr., George, White, and "Doc", who formed the East Central Fentem Quartet. A.L. Jr. was a member of the sub-freshman class of 1909-10 and one of the first football teams. He was later mayor of Ada.

George Fentem was a long-time county school superintendent in Arkansas. Whit Fentem, a quarterback on the football team, met Robert S. Kerr in the Oklahoma National Guard and worked for Kerr's Oil Company from 1928 until his death in 1951. "Doc" attended East Central's Horace Mann School. He formed a band in Canada in the 1920s that later became the Royal Canadians with the Dorsey brothers. He had another big band called the "Doc Fentem Sooners".

Sponsored and directed by the American Legion Auxiliary,

Oklahoma Girls State offers young women the opportunity to participate in citizenship training designed to emulate Oklahoma's government. It offers educational programs of government instruction for delegates by immersing them in the operations of local, county and state government. Throughout the week, the delegates campaign and elect government officials, including a governor and lieutenant governor, and participate in mock legislative sessions and court proceedings.

Lt. Governor Jari Askins gave the inaugural address. During the week many other leaders from Oklahoma government also addressed the delegates.

Flag day this year is Sunday, June 14. However, the American Legion will put flags out Monday, June 15. Also, if you have flags that need to be disposed of, bring them to the American Legion at the Senior Citizens Center by noon June 15 and they will dispose of them at 7 p.m. The Lindsay Boy Scouts will help with the ceremony. Everyone is invited to attend.

Lifeline Screening To Be In Lindsay

Residents living in and around Lindsay can be screened to reduce their risk of having a stroke or bone fracture. The First Assembly of God will host Life Line Screening June 19. The site is located at 1101 W Cherokee Street in Lindsay. Appointments will begin at 9 a.m.

Four key points every person needs to know: Stroke is the third leading cause of death and a leading cause of permanent disability, 80% of stroke victims had no apparent warning signs prior to their stroke, preventative ultrasound screenings can help you avoid a stroke, and screenings are fast, noninvasive, painless, affordable, and convenient.

Screenings identify potential cardiovascular conditions such as blocked arteries and irregular heart rhythm, abdominal aneurysms, and hardening of the arteries in the legs, which is a strong predictor of heart disease. A bone density screening to assess osteoporosis risk is also offered and is appropriate for both men and women.

Packages start at $139. All five screenings take 60-90 minutes to complete. For more information regarding the screenings or to schedule an appointment, call 1-877-237-1287 or visit our website at www.lifelinescreening.com. Pre-registration is required.

Life Line Screening was established in 1993, and has since become the nation's leading provider of preventative screenings.

Matchbook Memories

COX CITY SCHOOL REUNION

The Cox City School reunion was held on Saturday, June 6, at the University of Science and Arts in Chickasha. More than fifty former students and teachers of Cox City School gathered to recall their years in that school, now departed for a half century. For nearly five hours, the group reminisced about their years at Cox City.

A special tribute was paid to the students and teachers from the class of 1958, the last high school class to graduate from Cox City. My wife and I were honored to be included in that group. That school year 1957-58 was our first year to teach. My wife taught home economics and elementary. I taught English, coached boys and girls basketball, and was principal. Even though we knew that Cox City High School would close at the end of the year, we enjoyed our first year of teaching and appreciated the students we had there. On Saturday night, we met once again with those students from fifty-one years ago.

For my wife and me, the evening was like a trip back in time. One of the first students we met was Buddy Hudson, one of my wife's favorite grade school students. A half century had done nothing to diminish Buddy's wonderful sense of humor. Two stories illustrate that point. My wife attended Cox City her senior year of 1952-53. She was friends with Buddy's sister, Nell. The Hudson family attended the Cox City Baptist Church where her father was the pastor. When she returned four years later to teach, Buddy was a student in her elementary class. Not long after school started, Buddy said to his mother, "I think we are really worrying Juanita. She has a lot more gray hair than she had when she was in high school." But the best Buddy Hudson story is one I have written about in another "Matchbook Memories" column. My wife was practicing a Christmas program, which included all of the grade school students. Just two months earlier, the Russians had launched Sputnik, the first satellite to orbit the earth. The Christmas program was a celebration of the birth of Jesus. In an effort to focus the students' attention on the night of the birth of Jesus, she said, "Look up and just try to imagine the bright, beautiful star that stood above the stable." My wife's plan went wrong when Buddy said, "Look, Mrs. Nye. There's Sputnik." Buddy told Juanita at the reunion that one of his friends brought The Lindsay News to him at work and told him that his name was in the paper. In that edition was my article where I had told this story. I think his co-workers gave him a hard time. When Buddy left the reunion, he gave Juanita a big hug and said, "I have to go meet with my lawyer to file my libel suit." Buddy is still Buddy.

I was thrilled to visit with three of my former Cox City Comet players. Mary Evelyn Jones, Don Tugman, Leon Wright, and I relived some moments from that season fifty-one years ago. Mary was a forward on my team. Although we did not win a game, those girls were a delight to coach. They worked as hard as any players possible could, but, because of a lack of playing time the year before, they could not win.

Don Tugman was a wiry, athletic guard, who, along with Lindy Justus, could get the ball down the floor, set up plays, and score. Don and I visited for a long time about that year.

Their team was the last one to represent the Cox City Comets.

Leon Wright was our leading scorer. He was a strong, aggressive player, a team leader, and an excellent jump shooter. In my remarks Saturday night, I told two stories about Leon and our games against Bradley. Since I was from Bradley, I especially wanted to win those games. My friend, Kenny Hays, was the Bradley coach. Our first game was at Bradley. We were only a few points behind in the fourth quarter when a strange thing happened. The referee, whose name I will not mention, called a foul on Leon. Then, almost immediately, he called a technical on him and ejected him from the game. As I ran out onto the floor to ask what happened, he gave me a technical too. I asked Leon what happened, but he didn't know. I asked the referee what Leon said. He said, "He didn't say anything. I just didn't like the way he looked at me." Never before or since have I seen a player ejected for the way he "looked" at an official.

When Bradley came to Cox City, they were undefeated. That game was memorable. The lead changed back and forth many times. I have told the story of the end of that game in an earlier column. I will summarize the ending like this. The score was tied with only a few seconds left. The benches were up on the stage in the Cox City gym. I was standing on the steps leading down to the floor. Walt Snedeker was one of the officials. He had warned me not to say another word and to stay off the floor. As I leaned around the front of the stage to see the corner of the floor, I slipped, fell down the steps, and slid out onto the floor. Walt turned and saw me out on the basketball floor. As he raised his hand to call a technical, I held up both hands and asked him to wait. When I told him how I came to be out on the floor, he began to laugh. He thought I was lying, but he didn't call the technical. A few seconds later, Leon Wright hit a game-winning shot. That game was the highlight of my year at Cox City. On Saturday night, I enjoyed visiting once again with Leon, one of the best players I ever had and one of the most pleasant to coach.

Juanita and I sat at the banquet table with Shirley Cunningham Tillman and her daughter, Karen. When their class of 1953 celebrated their 50th reunion, several members of the class met at Shirley's house at Lindsay for lunch. Don Cunningham, John Harold Hanley, Juanita, and Shirley spent the afternoon making posters of their families and sharing stories of the years past. Shirley was a wonderful host. They all enjoyed a memorable reunion that evening.

My wife and I enjoyed visiting with other long-time friends. I had a wonderful visit with Lee Roy Riley, my college roommate. We enjoyed visiting with Bill and Joy Riley, longtime dear friends from Bradley and Cox City. We visited with Marian Cunningham, Virginia Cunningham, Nell Hudson, Neta Lindsey, Gladys Justus, Cotton and Betty Todd, Gaynell Worley Tugman, Ruby Worley, and many others we have known through the years. Even after more than a half century, those years came alive once more. We look forward to the next reunion, 2011, when we hope to meet with the Cox City School people once again.

Turn off the highway and let's go down the Wallville Road. Country Bill Donaho and I were sharing a cantaloupe under the old shade tree when Bill brought up the subject again. "Well, Al, what's going to become of the great Wallville name game?"

I said, "Bill, don't get too shook up just yet, this isn't the first time we've faced this challenge."

Bill said "What do you mean?"

I replied, "You haven't heard of the legendary Whitt Twiggs of early day Wallville? Well, he was quite a man, to be born an invalid, that's right, born with no legs. But, that didn't hinder him one iota. Why, he was a Wallville, U.S. Postmaster in 1907. In 1911 he was the Court Clerk for Garvin County. Has a plaque with his name on it right down there on the County Courthouse. He taught school at Wallville one-room school and over at Cottonwood. Well, they said he could ride a horse and was a dead shot with a twenty-two. Well, in 1930 he had his own store up there on the corner of Wallville Road and the rest of the world. In those days he attempted to change the Wallville name to Twiggs Corner, but as you can see it never took hold. Then there was that event in 1962 that we all thought that we had just about traveled our last mile down the Wallville Road

Now, the rest of the story. Well, Bill said, "What happened in 1962 that was so devastating?"

"Well, it was the year John F. Kennedy was president in the fall of 1962. We were constantly at odds with the super power known as the Soviet Union. Well, our ambassadors to the United Nations came up with aerial photos of Russian missiles being set up in Cuba. A little old country 90 miles or so off the coast of Florida."

Well, Bill said, what's that got to do with the Wallville Road?"

"I'm getting to that," Al said. "America thought they were being tested. President Kennedy sent ships to blockade Cuba and declared no Soviet ships would pass without being inspected."

"Oh! man, said Bill, that did evermore seem dangerous." "Yeah, buddy, and those young people at Wallville were like everyone else, they thought it was World War III. And let me tell you, night after night at the little country church, they were in the altars, Alice Smart, Betty Hyatt, her sisters, Billie and Carolyn, Sue Blankenship, Irene and Darlene White, Diane Turner, and Ruth Jensen, and Naomi Quinn, I tell you the tears did evermore flow. They rended the heavens. I do believe thru prayers held off the everlasting destruction of the Wallville Road. Well, what was the outcome?"

"Well, I said, Bill, Dean Rusk our secretary of state said "We were eyeball to eyeball and they just blinked," and were still down the Wallville Road.

2009 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report Lindsay PWA

We're very pleased to provide you with this year's Annual Quality Water Report. We want to keep you informed about the excellent water and services we have delivered to you over the past year. Our goal is and always has been, to provide to you a safe and dependable supply of drinking water.

Our water source is ground water drawn from Washita River Alluvia. An analysis of contamination susceptibility of our source water has been done. The analysis showed that our water's susceptibility to contamination is HIGH. [This plan is available for viewing in our office.- Information such as potential sources of contamination is listed in the plan.

I'm pleased to report that our drinking water is safe and meets Federal and State requirements.

This report shows our water quality and what it means.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Bill Mitchell, City Manager. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled meetings. They are held on the 2nd Monday of every month at 5:15 p.m. at Council Chambers.

LPWA routinely monitors for constituents in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. This table shows the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1st to December 31st, 2008. (Some of our data may be more than one year old because the state allows us to monitor for some constituents less often than once per year.) All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some constituents. It's important to remember that the presence of these constituents does not necessarily pose a health risk.

WATER QUALITY DATA TABLE

The table below lists all of the drinking water contaminants we detected for the calendar year of this report. The presence of contaminants in the water does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. Unless otherwise noted, the data presented in this table is from testing done in the calendar year of the report.

In this table you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l)

Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter (ug/l)

Action Level (AL) - the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) - A treatment technique is a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) - The MCL is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal - The MCLG is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

TEST RESULTS
Contaminant	Violation Y/N	Highest Level Detected	Range Detected	MCL	MCLG	Likely Source of Contamination
Microbiological Contaminants
1. Total Coliform Bacteria (System takes <40 monthly samples) (Highest number of samples in a 9 month)	No	1	1	5% positive 1 positive	0	Naturally present in the environment
Inorganic Contaminants
9. Barium (ppb) (2006 Sample)	No	16.3 ug/l	16.3 - 16.3 ug/l	2000	2000	Discharge of drilling wastes; discharge from metal refineries; erosion of natural deposits.
18. Copper (ppm) (2008 Sample)	No	0.356 Mg/l	N/A	AL-1.3	1.3	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits; leaching from wood preservatives

Microbiological Contaminants:

(1) Total Coliform. Coliforms are bacteria that are naturally present in the environment and are used as an indicator that other, potentially- harmful, bacteria may be present. Coliforms were found in more samples than allowed and this was a warning of potential problems.

Inorganic Contaminants:

(9) Barium. Some people who drink water containing barium in excess of the MCL over many years could experience an increase in their blood pressure.

(18) Copper. Copper is an essential nutrient, but some people who drink water containing copper in excess of the action level over a relatively short amount of time could experience gastrointestinal distress. Some people who drink water containing copper in excess of the action level over many years could suffer liver or kidney damage. People with Wilson's Disease should consult their personal doctor.

What does this mean?

As you can see by the table, our system had no violations. We are proud that your drinking water meets or exceeds all Federal and State requirements. We have learned through our monitoring and testing that some constituents have been detected. The EPA has determined that your water IS SAFE at these levels.

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water before we treat it include:

*Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife.

*Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming.

*Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture and residential uses.

*Radioactive contaminants, which are naturally occurring.

*Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. FDA regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water which must provide the same protection for public health.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

In our continuing efforts to maintain a safe and dependable water supply it may be necessary to make improvements in your water system. The costs of these improvements may be reflected in the rate structure. Rate adjustments may be necessary in order to address these improvements. Thank you for allowing us to continue providing your family with clean, quality water this year. In order to maintain a safe and dependable water supply we sometimes need to make improvements that will benefit all of our customers. These improvements are sometimes reflected as rate structure adjustments. Thank you for understanding.

Please call our office if you have questions.

We at LPWA work around the clock to provide top quality water to every tap, said Bill Mitchell.

2009 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report Garvin County Rural Water District #2

We're very pleased to provide you with this year's Annual Quality Water Report. Our Annual Quality Water Report is being posted in our local newspapers and will not be mailed to each individual customer. We want to keep you informed about the excellent water and services we have delivered to you over the past year. Our goal is and always has been, to provide to you a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. Our water source is ground water drawn from 3 water wells. The water wells are approximately 80 feet deep and are produced from the purcell sandstone aquifer.

We have a source water protection plan available from our office that shows the vulnerability low.

I'm pleased to report that our drinking water is safe and meets Federal and State requirements.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Derek Taylor at 405-756-2440. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled meetings. They are held on the second Wednesday of each month, at 6:00 p.m., unless otherwise posted. The meetings are held at 401 South Main Lindsay, Oklahoma 73052

Microbiological Contaminants:

(1) Total Coliform. Coliforms are bacteria that are naturally present in the environment and are used as an indicator that other, potentially- harmful, bacteria may be present. Coliforms were found in more samples than allowed and this was a warning of potential problems.

Radiochemical Contaminants:

(4) Gross Alpha. Certain minerals are radioactive and may emit a form of radiation known as alpha radiation. Some people who drink water containing alpha emitters in excess of the MCL over many years may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

(5) Combined Radium 226/228. Some people who drink water containing radium 226 or 228 in excess of the MCL over many years may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

(6) Uranium. Some people who drink water containing uranium in excess of the MCL over many years may have an increased risk of getting cancer and kidney toxicity

Inorganic Contaminants:

(8) Arsenic. Some people who drink water containing arsenic in excess of the MCL over many years could experience skin damage or problems with their circulatory system, and may have an increased risk of getting cancer.

(9) Barium. Some people who drink water containing barium in excess of the MCL over many years could experience an increase in their blood pressure.

(20) Fluoride. Some people who drink water containing fluoride in excess of the MCL over many years could get bone disease, including pain and tenderness of the bones. Children may get mottled teeth.

(21) Lead. Infants and children who drink water containing lead in excess of the action level could experience delays in their physical or mental development. Children could show slight deficits in attention span and learning abilities. Adults who drink this water over many years could develop kidney problems or high blood pressure.

(23) Nitrate. Infants below the age of six months who drink water containing nitrate in excess of the MCL could become seriously ill and, if untreated, may die. Symptoms include shortness of breath and blue-baby syndrome.

Inadequately treated water may contain disease-causing organisms. These organisms include bacteria, viruses, and parasites, which can cause symptoms such as nausea, cramps, diarrhea, and associated headaches.

As you can see by the table, our system had no violations. We are proud that your drinking water meets or exceeds all Federal and State requirements. We have learned through our monitoring and testing that some constituents have been detected. The EPA has determined that your water IS SAFE at these levels

Radioactive contaminants*, which are naturally occurring.

Organic chemical contaminants*, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.

MCLs are set at very stringent levels. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated constituents, a person would have to drink 2 liters of water every day at the MCL level for a lifetime to have a one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect.

In our continuing efforts to maintain a safe and dependable water supply it may be necessary to make improvements in your water system. The costs of these improvements may be reflected in the rate structure. Rate adjustments may be necessary in order to address these improvements.
