Norman Regional To Host Drive Through Flu Clinic

Free flu vaccinations for adults will be available beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 17, at the HealthPlex during Norman Regional Hospital's annual Drive-Thru Flu Clinic, sponsored by the Norman Regional Health Foundation. The HealthPlex is at Tecumseh Road and Interstate 35. The event will happen rain or shine and until all 1100 doses are administrated.

Because of dosage variations, pregnant women and children under 18 will not be vaccinated during this event. The vaccinations will continue until the vaccine supply is exhausted.

Those participating in the flu clinic should enter the HealthPlex campus from 36th Avenue NW or from Tecumseh Road (westbound only). Vehicles will be directed through a station set up for consent forms, then will be sent to one of two vaccination tents. Nurses will administer the vaccine while participants remain in their vehicles. Individuals seeking the vaccinations should wear short-sleeved shirts. Car pooling is encouraged to minimize traffic concerns. Participants must be in vehicles to receive the vaccine, no walk-ups will be accepted. Traffic will leave the HealthPlex, eastbound only, onto Tecumseh Road.

Patients seeking treatment at the Urgent Care Center will have access to the parking area through a designated entrance from Tecumseh Road.

Those participating in the flu clinic should check with their physicians if they are allergic to eggs, chicken or chicken feathers; have a sensitivity to thimerosal; have received any other type of vaccine in the past 14 days; are allergic to gentamicin (Garamycin®), an aminoglycoside antibiotic; or have a fever, acute respiratory or other active infections due to illness.

The Center for Disease Control reports that much of the illness and death caused by influenza can be prevented with annual flu vaccines. High-risk groups are people 65 years of age and older and people of any age with chronic diseases of the heart, lung or kidneys or those that have diabetes or immunosuppression. The high-risk group should receive the flu vaccine from mid October to November.

The CDC reports flu vaccines must be given every year because the influenza viruses are continually changing. Each year, the flu vaccine must be updated to include the most current flu virus strains. Also, antibodies made after being vaccinated declines over time, which decreases a person's immunity to the flu viruses.

The CDC also reports the risk of the flu vaccine causing serious harm or death is very small. Flu vaccines produced in the U.S. cannot cause influenza because they are made from killed influenza viruses, which cannot cause infection. The most common side effects are redness and soreness at the site of the injection, which can be relieved with over the counter pain relievers.

OKLAHOMA BOOKS THE GRAPES OF WRATH PART II

Some readers viewed The Grapes of Wrath as an obscene book which insulted the people of Oklahoma. Preachers attacked it from the pulpit. Censors sought to have it removed from library shelves. Oklahoma Congressman Lyle Boren, father of David Boren, attacked the novel in a speech before Congress, calling it a "dirty, lying, filthy manuscript" which dishonored the people of Oklahoma.

But other readers viewed the novel from a different perspective. They rightly viewed the novel as a tribute to the courage and determination of the Okies. They recognized the symbolism in the story and the allegorical nature of the Okies' journey. Much of the impact of the story is achieved through the use of Christian symbolism and the allegorical motif of the Exodus from Egypt of the Children of Israel as they traveled to the Promised Land. The Grapes of Wrath loses much of its power if Christian symbolism is ignored.

The title of the novel carries heavy Christian overtones. Julia Ward Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic" includes the words "He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored." The title also obviously alludes to Revelation 14:19 "the great winepress of the wrath of God." Steinbeck seems to suggest that the wrath of God will descend on those who oppress the downtrodden poor. Many readers failed to understand that the Okies are the heroes of The Grapes of Wrath. They survive the terrible ordeal even though they are still struggling in the "Promised Land" of California.

The journey of the Okies from Sallisaw, Oklahoma, to the vegetable fields of the San Joaquin Valley of California is an allegorical representation of the journey of the Children of Israel out of Egypt, through the desert and wilderness, to Canaan, the Promised Land. The Okies, like the Children of Israel, encounter drought, starvation, hostility, and despair as they make their journey. When they finally reach their destination, they are met by hostile Californians much as the Children of Israel were met by the Edomites, Moabites, and Amorites, who tried to keep the Israelites from entering their countries.

Many of the characters in The Grapes of Wrath are reminiscent of Biblical characters and Christian virtues. Ma Joad is a symbol of love. She sustains her family and the other Okies through her unflinching love and compassion. When times are the worst, Ma is the solid rock upon which everyone depends. She is tough yet tender, hard yet gentle, stern yet compassionate. She is an earth mother in a spiritual sense.

Tom Joad, the oldest son, is the leader of the Okies. In this role, he becomes a Moses figure. He leads the Okies as Moses led the Children of Israel. He kills a vigilante who is attacking one of the Okies as Moses killed the Egyptian who was beating an Israelite. Both Tom and Moses fled to avoid arrest.

Throughout the novel, Tom is the leader of the people.

Jim Casy, the earthy one-time preacher, represents a Christ figure in his doctrine and his actions. Even though his actions fall short of a Christian leader, his philosophy and his role in the novel resemble those of Christ. Even his initials, J.C., suggest a parallel to Jesus. Early in the novel, Casy goes out by himself, as Jesus went into the wilderness, and returns with a new vision for the people. He sees a kind of Emersonian vision on the Oversoul, what he calls a doctrine of One Soul, which is based on love and good works. His new vision guides the Okies as they travel toward California. When the vigilantes attack the Okies' camp, they focus their attack on Jim Casy as the leader. In the moonlight, they recognize his bald head, which seems to shine in the moonlight, as some people think of a halo around the head of Jesus. As they begin to club Casy to death, he says, "Listen, you fellas don' know what you're doin'." Casy's words reflect the words of Jesus as he hung on the cross as he said, "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do" After Casy's death, Tom Joad tells Ma that a part of Casy will be with them wherever they go, as Jesus said he would be with his disciples even after death.

There are many other reflections of the Bible in The Grapes of Wrath. Names, scenes, characters, and themes suggest a Biblical influence. Steinbeck employed the Bible in other works such as East of Eden, a kind of parallel to the story of Cain and Abel. Whether Steinbeck deliberately employed Biblical references in his work or not, his writings are more powerful because of the Biblical references, images, and language.

Horse Adoption To Be Held In Pauls Valley

Horses are going up for adoption in Pauls Valley.

The U.S. Bureau of Land Management (BLM) will hold a wild horse and burro adoption in Pauls Valley, Friday-Saturday, Nov. 16-17, 2007. Attendance is free and open to the public.

This two-day weekend event kicks off a new quarterly adoption schedule at the BLM's regional facility in Pauls Valley. Previously, adoptions were held the second Tuesday of each month; now adoptions are held every three to four months on announced dates. Dates for the coming year are:

- Nov. 16-17, 2007
 - March 14-15, 2008
 - May 16-17, 2008
 - Aug. 15-16, 2008
- (Times: Fridays 8:00 a.m.-4:00 p.m.; Saturdays 8:00 a.m. - noon)

"We hope that a two-day weekend adoption will be more convenient for those who might have work or family conflicts during the week," said Bob Mitchell, adoption program manager in Oklahoma.

A mixed group of 70-80 animals will be offered at each adoption, often including burros and young horses. These are animals that once roamed free on public lands in the West. The BLM periodically removes excess animals from the range in order to ensure herd health and to maintain balance among the many public uses of the land. The adoption program is essential for preserving these "living legends."

Call the facility directly at 405-238-7138 to learn specifics about the selection of animals expected to be available at an upcoming adoption. The facility cannot accept special requests for specific animals to be made available.

Adopters who live within 100 miles of Pauls Valley can arrange for free delivery of their animal(s) by BLM staff. Delivery is scheduled based on staff availability. Alternatively, adopters who bring their own covered stock-type trailers may haul their animals home right away.

Directions to the Pauls Valley facility: On Interstate 35, approximately 45 miles south of Oklahoma City, Exit 74, Kimberlin Road, 1/4 mile west to facility entrance. Look for signs.

For more information about the adoption process or other upcoming adoption opportunities, the public can call the BLM's Wild Horse & Burro Information Line toll-free at 866-4-MUSTANGS (866-468-7826), or visit HYPERLINK "http://www.nm.blm.gov" www.nm.blm.gov.

Englands To Celebrate Golden Anniversary

Jim and Barbara England

Jim & Barbara England were married November 30, 1957. As mom recalls, their story begins like this:

She was walking home from school, a car passed by and honked and she politely smiled and waved back to the young men. One of the young men returned to the area days later to inquire about how to locate this young lady he had passed on the road. This began the 50 year relationship of Jim & Barbara (Condit) England whom will be celebrating their fiftieth wedding anniversary November 17th, 2007.

In these 50 years of marriage, we four children, Jimmy, Bobby, Melody & Rena' have witnessed only love & devotion between the two of them. We never heard a hurtful word said from one to the other and only saw the most compassionate heart felt love a couple could have for one another. Through their love it has taught us how to love. With this foundation we have built families with strong devotion to each other. We were taught while growing up to always love your brothers & sisters and always know your family will be there for you. We have built on this everyday of our lives & have been there for one another through joy & sorrow. Being in a close family we will never long for friends, and can always be assured family will be there when we need a friend.

Come share with us, our parents 50 years of love, along with our brother Jimmy and his wife Kay (Selzer) England in their 25th wedding anniversary. November 17, 2007, 2pm-4pm at the REC multi purpose building, North Hwy 76, Lindsay, Okla.

Financial Focus

Teach Your Children to Be Savers and Investors

Ideally, our children should learn good behavior from us. But when it comes to living within our means, and saving and investing for the future, we're not setting such a good example. Consider the following:

Savings are low - The personal savings rate in the U.S. in 2006 and 2005 was negative - something that hasn't happened since the Great Depression. Thus far in 2007, the savings rate has crept into positive territory, but it's still anemic.

Debt is high - Household debt, as measured by the ratio of debt payments to disposable personal income, has reached record highs over the past couple of years. Of course, your children aren't responsible for our discouraging savings and debt trends. But if you'd like to help them boost their chances for achieving financial stability in their adult lives, you can take a number of steps, including the following:

Reward children for saving. Children, like adults, tend to repeat behavior that is rewarded in some way. So, if you want your children to become good savers, you might want to match their contributions, either fully or partially, whenever they put money away, whether it's in a big jar or a bank account. Once they've saved a certain amount, you may want to let them withdraw part of it to purchase something they want.

Exhibit restraint in spending. When you want to teach your children an important lesson, what you do is sometimes more important than what you say. So, if you want to stress the importance of delaying immediate gratification and avoiding excessive debts, you might want to talk about something like your car, if it's older, and say you wish you could get a new one. When your child asks why you don't, you can respond that you don't have the money for it now, and you don't want to have borrow too much money to get one, because that would just mean a big payment later on.

Explain principles of investing. Even fairly young children can typically understand what it means to invest in stocks, if it's carefully explained to them. Use examples of the companies with which they may be familiar - Disney, McDonald's, etc. - and stick to the basics. For example, anyone can own small pieces of these businesses. You might even decide to buy a few shares of one of these stocks and, along with your children, follow its returns.

Give examples of inflation. If you want your children to become financially literate, they'll need to understand the effects of inflation. Start them out with simple examples, such as the cost of candy or milk when you were a child versus those costs today. Then, explain that as the cost of virtually everything goes up over time, you need to put some of your money in investments that will hopefully have the potential to grow faster than the rate of inflation.

By following these basic suggestions, you can help your children develop financial behaviors that can serve them well throughout their lives.

Tall Tales

by Doyle Greteman

Superintendent, Lindsay Schools

In the words of the old BeeGees song, "You think that I don't even mean a single word I say, "It's only words, and words are all I have to take your heart away."

One of the lessons we would like for our students to learn is that words can be powerful. Once we realize how important what we say is, as well as how we say it, we can begin to understand how we can influence others.

It's been like a roller-coaster ride the last four months, as my father-in-law suffered through a painful, terminal illness. As we went through the process with him, taking him to several different doctors, it was interesting to see the vast contrast in bedside manners of the various physicians. It was educational, to say the least.

One doctor we will never forget saw him just a few weeks ago, in Tulsa. Whether he realized it or not, his positive words had such a wonderful effect that it changed the entire outlook, if only for one day. There was hope.

In the same manner in which these highly educated professionals' words affect their patients, we as educators must realize that our words impact the lives of children on a daily basis.

After witnessing the impact words had on a man who was battling for his life, I wondered why, when we must give bad news, we can't do it in such a way that there is somewhere, somehow, a light at the end of the tunnel?

Honesty is important. Sometimes, hard questions have to be answered. But we must always leave room for hope when dealing with young minds.

A few days ago, I spent some time with my two-and-a-half-year-old grandson, sitting on a pile of dirt by the elementary playground, watching him as he discovered the finer aspects of dirt clods.

While he was discovering, I had an opportunity to watch the various groups of kids playing in the beautiful autumn weather. It was interesting, to say the least, to watch how many sets of dynamics were working on that one solitary playground.

From football games to basketball to baseball to galloping make-believe horses to playing on the numerous types of equipment, it was like a panoramic view of childhoods past and present.

Watching all these busy little guys and gals helped me to realize how special each one of them is, and how they deserve the best treatment we can give them. If we have words to share with them, let them be ones that guide, nurture, and encourage, not ones that tear down, discourage, and destroy hope.

For after all, there are many times that words are all we have to give.

Leopards End Football Season Look Forward To Basketball

The Lindsay Leopards traveled to Bridge Creek last Friday night with hopes of ending the regular season on a positive note and with some help still making the post season. But Bridge Creek handed the Leopards their fifth loss of the season by a score of 35-7.

The turnover bug bit the Leopards early as they had the first chance on offense starting at their own 27 yard line. Quarterback Tim Hamilton hit Steven Carter with an eight yard pass to move the ball to the 35 yard line. But Jordan Lukens was stripped of the ball after a nice gain on 2nd down and Bridge Creek recovered at their own 43 yard line. Lindsay's defense rose to the occasion though, and forced the Bobcats to three and out.

The Leopards started their next drive at their own 18 yard line. After an offside call on Bridge Creek on first down, Stephon Bradley picked up 3 yards, and then Dakota Nelson rambled for 7 more yards to give the Leopards a first down at the 33 yard line. Hamilton was sacked for a 6 yard loss, but on 2nd down he found Jordan Lukens over the middle and the pass and reception was good for 63 yards and a 1st down at the Bridge Creek 27 yard line. Three plays later Lukens scored from one yard out and Hamilton added the PAT and with 6:17 to go in the first quarter the Leopards had the 7-0 lead.

The teams traded possessions and Bridge Creek started their next drive at the Lindsay 45 yard line. The Bobcat's Michael Aska gained 37 yards on the first two plays to move the ball to the Lindsay 8 yard line. Quarterback Zane Mellinger covered the final eight yards on the next two plays and Shane Leiter added the extra point so with :41 seconds to go in the first quarter the score was tied 7-7.

The Leopard offense was held to three and out on their next possession and Bridge Creek once again had the ball in great field position at the Lindsay 40 yard line. The Bobcats were facing 3rd and 13 from the 31 yard line when Mellinger found Seth Beers on a 31 yard touchdown pass. Leiter's PAT was good and with 9:01 left in the half the Bobcats led 14-7 and that is how the half would end.

The Bobcats had the ball to start the second half starting at their own 34 yard line, and ten plays later had a first down at the Lindsay 11 yard line. But the Leopard defense forced a fumble and recovered at the 10 yard line. Deep in their own territory, the Lindsay offense stalled and three plays later had to punt giving Bridge Creek great field position once again in Leopard territory at the 39 yard line. Leiter rambled for 21 yards on first down and then found the end zone from 18 yards out on the next play. His extra point was no good though, so with 5:06 to go in the 3rd quarter Bridge Creek extended their lead 20-7.

The Bobcats would score again with just under a minute left in the 3rd quarter on a seven play 70 yard drive. Mellinger's pass to Craig Hill was good for the two point conversion and Bridge Creek's lead was now 28-7.

Lindsay's offense again stalled and was forced to three and out and gave Bridge Creek the ball back at their own 32 yard line. Eight plays later Aska scored from one yard out and Leiter added the extra point to give the Bobcats the 35-7 lead with 9:26 to go in the game and that is how the game would end.

It was not the ending to the season that the Leopards had hoped for, but we are proud of the 2007 Lindsay football team and coaches. The Leopards ended the season 5-5 overall and 3-4 in district play. The Leopards will certainly miss this year's seniors, but with the experience returning next year and the talent moving into high school, next season looks exciting. Great Job Leopards! We're Proud Of You!

Alex Students Named Student Ambassadors

Canadian Valley Technology Center named students from its school to serve as Student Ambassadors this year; three chosen were Alex High School Students: Andy Fancher (CADD), Whitney Clarkson (Business/Office Technology), and Cheyenne Sanders (Graphic Design) 2nd year ambassador.

The ambassador program is one of leadership training, and facilitation to improve skills and character development opportunities for those selected. The students participate during the year in many activities including improving public speaking skills, learning personal accountability, and teamwork. They tour other Oklahoma technology centers and the State Capitol where they meet with local and state officials, speak to sophomore classes for recruitment for CVTC. A major objective for these ambassadors is to become very familiar with every program CVTC offers, so they can speak effectively before their peers to relay information about Canadian Valley and the programs they offer.

The Student Ambassador program has an adviser and is funded by the center's Foundation. Organized in 1984, it is separate from the school, and is governed by a Board of Directors appointed from within the district they represent.

Alex FCCLA Carnival Results

The Alex chapter of FCCLA has chosen this year to give the proceeds from its Halloween Carnival to two charities-Feed the Children, an Ok. City based program that collects and sends food around the world where ever it is needed, whether to starving people or those who lives have been destroyed by floods, tornadoes, hurricanes or tsunami and to Relay for Life whose funds go for intensive research and development for cancer drugs and to discover a cure for cancers. This year the carnival featured a King and Queen Contest for both elementary school and Jr high/Sr high school, cake walk, face painting, bingo, and numerous other activities to raise $882.04 for the two charities. They wish to thank all who donated prizes or contributed to the various activities.

Turn off the highway and let's go down the Wallville Road. November 16, the Oklahoma Centennial and 100 years of Wallville. Making the land run of 1889, Noah Wall and family who had come down the Trail of Tears from Oktiebba, Mississippi staked their claim in the rich Washita Valley. Perhaps running a trading post in the area, the site would come to bear his name. 1891 and a post office was established with John L. Wilson as the first postmaster. Cattle trail rods, a 400 acre cornfield on the north end of Wallville raised by Frank Murray, the builder of the Lindsay-Murray Mansion. With M.C. Bud HoldeR as the overseer of the acreage. There were horse races up and down the cattle trails and gambling was a big business long before it was legal. By 1907 the establishment of Wallville had been surveyed as a townsite, supported a one-room school and a Doctor, J.C.

Isabell J.W. "Whitt" Twiggs was a colorful character in the days of statehood. School teacher, postmaster, business owner, 1911 Garvin County Court Clerk. Yet, an invalid born with no legs, could ride a horse and a dead shot with a rifle. Fred Tinch and Robert Watkins brought broomcorn to the Valley in 1906 and the Rush Creek Valley flourished. Stephenson and Scott would be operators of the local store by 1918. The post office closed in 1919 along with the consolidation of the one room school. But, it was all there in the beginning of 100 years down the Wallville Road.

Greetings ball fans-special note to Boo Boo, Big John, Ramtett Stringbean, Fuzzy, and Country from the Owl Man. We were Wallville when Wallville wasn't cool. Legend #783.

Our hearts go out to the Vestle family, Sheila, Cookie, brother and sisters at the passing of Michael Frank Vestle (44) last week. Mike was a family man and a community leader. His funeral was November 3 at the Maysville Assembly of God.

One more time, a benefit dinner will be held November 11 at Maysville School cafeteria between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. for Alfred and Cindy White who is battling cancer. Your support is appreciated.

The Wallville Church enjoyed it's annual fall get together Friday, November 2. With food, hay rides, and laughs galore. Those enjoying the night were Al and Cindy Hunt and family and their world famous burritos, Dallas Pope, Destry Bourdine, Mark and Vicki James and family, Mike and Naomi Hines, Joe, Kandace and Sierra Hunt, Matt and Kristi and Anna Grace Hunt. We missed Grandma Ruby.

The Wallville Church

enjoyed a visit from Brother Charley Cox and wife Geneva Saturday November 3. They hail from Oakdale Country near Wynnewood.

Naomi Hines, the old pecan cracker, with husband Mike made church and had visits from Al Hunt, Isaiah, Tiffany, Kristen Hunt, Darianne, Kayla, Mark, and Vicki and Ashlee.

Now, direct from the pages of Old Al's Almanac, November 11 is Veteran's Day across the good Ol' USA. Take a Veteran to lunch month.

From celebration station, happy birthday Mark Drees on the 8, Barbara Jensen, Rick High, and Martha Auld share the 9, Ann Pratt parties big time on the 10, Ronnie Blankenship and Cammie Turner both get older on the 11, Annie McCutcheon parties on the 12, and finally this week, Kristi Brown and Robert Driskell are birthday celebrants on the 14. Aloha folks.

The Wallville Church also enjoyed a nice visit from Brother James Jeffries and wife November 4, Sunday night preaching and singing.

Winner of the roses, Steve and Carla Abrams, this November 12 will make 13 years of the good life. Steve is an old oilfield man.

The Wallville teacher research team found that Miss Lillian Chandler, Hughes teacher, elementary classes during the big War years, under Roy Romine, superintendent, also taught at Tyrola and Byg, New Bethel, Dare, and Erin Springs. She felt like no two teaching days were alike.

Joe and Kandace Hunt at this writing are watching the skies for a visit from the legendary stork. They have a daughter, Kayla Sierra, whose birthday is November 22 and their anniversary #7 is this November 10. You can tell they like November.

Listen up, I'm only going to say this once, send your news to RR 3 Box 222-A, Pauls Valley, OK, or call 207-1691 or 206-7495. Our relay team at work.

The Wallville Veterans Committee salutes my old friend, Sp/4 Al Hunt, serving his country 1968-1971. Boot camp, Ft. Polk, LA, AIT, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas, then Ft. Bragg, North Carolina and two years as a medic in Germany. A real gung ho type guy.

News from Hughes-a new home is going up on Hughes Hill on the Ozella Wilson property. Occupants unknown at this time. We will keep you posted.

Grady Memorial Supplies Staph Infection Information

Grady Memorial Hospital welcomes the increased attention and dialogue on the important problem of multi-drug resistant organisms. The Hospital adopted CDC's recommended infection control policies many years ago and continues to update and work with CDC guidelines on a daily basis to help prevent and control infections.

"We are pleased that the CDC, state and local health departments, and partners nationwide are working together to prevent the spread of multi-drug resistant organisms and in particular, MRSA infections," said Dana Hodge, RN, infection control nurse at Grady Memorial Hospital. "MRSA (Methicillin-resistant Staphylococcus aureus) is a type of bacteria which causes "staph" infections that are resistant to treatment with the usual antibiotics. This increasing national problem is particularly serious for individuals with weakened immune systems."

Grady Memorial Hospital has extensive programs in place in housekeeping, nursing, and all patient care departments that provide for a rigorous schedule of cleaning and precautions to prevent the spread of staff infections. While staff members wash hands or use an alcohol based waterless hand cleaner between patients, the Hospital is adding a new step to our precautions with several dozen new touch-less alcohol-based hand sanitizers that will be placed throughout the Hospital later this month. They will be located outside each patient room and in public areas. The Hospital encourages family and friends to also sanitize their hands with these sanitizers before and after each patient visit.

MRSA skin infections can occur anywhere and we are seeing an increasing prevalence of staph in community settings throughout the United States. Some settings have factors that make it easier for MRSA to be transmitted. These factors are: Crowding, Contact (frequent skin-to-skin), Compromised skin (i.e., cuts or abrasions), Contaminated items and surfaces, and lack of Cleanliness.

prepared before hand, send your Christmas cards to the Old Owl Man, RR 3 Box 222-A, Pauls Valley, OK 73075.

Our prayers are with Brother Steve Moore and the New Mission Church. Long time friends of ours as Brother Steve's wife Gayla is battling cancer. She has been in hospital, but has returned home.

The falling leaves are getting heavier and the mornings are cooler. The old clock on the wall has been set back an hour and it's howdy doody time. Are you getting anxious for the Thanksgiving day festivities and the big time Lindsay Christmas Parade? We are. The Owl Man may be seen everywhere. Until next week this is be kind to "Kandace Hunt" week. Expect great news next week.

100 years of Wallville-low water crossings at Rush Creek, marble games at Hughes School, Jess Garrison years at Hughes Public School, Riley and Sophie Work, Paul and Pauline Cunningham, Cotton Wood School, Rush Creek floodings, Fred McCurley's store front church, broomcorn harvest, cotton picking, pecan harvest, Sam Lambert, Betty Jenkins, Hughes bulldogs, R.T. and Lizzie Rollins, 1936 school burns, 1958 hold up of Wallville store, 1960 tornado, 1930 winter, news from Hughes by Mrs. Bessie Penn, Mattie and Frances, Table Top Mountains, Panther Creek, Woody, Jim, Bob and Lem, pasture fires, and ice storms. The Rush Creek Boys Bluegrass Band and the Wallville C of C 100 years of glory. That and more happen just down the Wallville Road.

Locations where these five factors are common include schools, dormitories, military barracks, households, correctional facilities, hospitals, nursing homes and daycare centers.

Most staph and MRSA infections are treatable with antibiotics. Individuals given an antibiotic should take all of the doses, even if the infection is getting better, unless your doctor tells you to stop taking it. Many staph skin infections may be treated by draining the abscess or boil and may not require antibiotics. Drainage of skin boils or abscesses should only be done by a healthcare provider.

The community can help prevent spreading staph or MRSA skin infections to others by following these steps:

Cover wounds. Keep wounds that are draining or have pus covered with clean, dry bandages. Follow your healthcare provider's instructions on proper care of the wound. Pus from infected wounds can contain staph and MRSA, so keeping the infection covered will help prevent the spread to others. Bandages or tape can be discarded with the regular trash.

Clean your hands. You, your family, and others in close contact should wash their hands frequently with soap and warm water or use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer, especially after changing the bandage or touching the infected wound.

Do not share personal items. Avoid sharing personal items such as towels, washcloths, razors, clothing, or uniforms that may have had contact with the infected wound or bandage. Wash sheets, towels, and clothes that become soiled with water and laundry detergent. Drying clothes in a hot dryer, rather than air-drying, also helps kill bacteria in clothes.

Talk to your doctor. Tell any healthcare providers who treats you that you have or have had a staph or MRSA skin infection.

Alex FCCLA Chapter News

The Bedlam has already begun at Alex High School since that was the theme for the Alex Family Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) Chapter's semi-annual blood drive with The Oklahoma Blood Institute. There were approximately 39 perspective donors. Due to some technicalities, only 28 donors were eligible to give blood.

The Chapter is becoming extremely busy as the year continues. They just hosted, along with the local Technology Student Association, their 3rd Annual Alex Community Halloween Carnival. The Chapters raised almost 900 dollars to help fund the Alex Elementary playground, the Relay for Life and Feed the Children. At the carnival there was a Halloween King and Queen Contest. There is a boy and girl contestant elected from each class. These candidates then raise money, and the boy and girl from elementary and high school that raise the most money win the title of Halloween Queen and King. This year the titles went to elementary students, Sam Otey and Olivia Ketchum, and for high school students, Dakota Vernon and Paige Dunn.

The local officers are getting "M.A.D.E." (Making A Difference Everywhere) as that is the theme for this years national Cluster Meeting. The officers will be attending the meeting in Denver, Colorado on November 16 and 17. The officers hope to learn leadership and life skills that will help them throughout the year in their pursuit in making their chapter better and more successful.

The Chapter would like to thank everyone that came out and helped support them in all of their events.
